KEY TO SERRES FALLS INTO GREEKS' HANDS IN DECIDING CLASH

Biggest Battle of Campaign Opens With Greeks on Offensive Near Saloniki–Outnumbered by 20,000

SERVIANS AND BULGARS FIGHTING DESPERATELY

Great Saloniki Battle Extends Over Area of Fifty Miles, With Both Armies Determined to Risk Everything

(By Associated Press.)

SALONIKI, July 5.—The Greek troops today captured from the Bulgarians the small town of Lahana on the railroad from Saloniki to Serres. It is considered the most important position in the vicinity and the key to Serres, which lies about twenty miles to the northeast.

The losses on both sides were considerable.

180,000 Men Engaged In War's Deciding Battle

(By Associated Press.)

VIENNA, July 5.—Desperate fighting has been in progress between Bulgarians and Servians since yesterday near Veles (Koprili), according to the correspondents of the Nueve Pris Presse. He says the Bulgarian troops assailed the Servian southern wing with heavy losses, and expect to occupy Veles shortly.

The same correspondent telegraphs that a great battle extending over an area of fifty miles is in progress north of Saloniki, where 80,000 Greeks are opposed by 100,000 Bulgarians. The Bulgarians had made a number of minor attacks last Monday, with the object of insuring the Greeks to the offensive. The bait was taken and the battle was begun. The result is expected to be a deciding factor in the Greek and Bulgarian campaign.

The strategy of the Bulgarian commanders forced the Greeks to abandon several fortified positions near Salonika, Langasa lake and Seshik lake. The Greeks now are threatened by an outflanking attack by a column of 30,000 Bulgarians advancing from the south of Tahynes lake.

The Bulgarian attack on Zayatchar has resulted after a severe battle.

No Intervention Likely From the European Powers

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, July 5.—Although no exchange of views has taken place among the European powers, it is understood that there will be no intervention in the Balkan conflict and that the belligerents will be left to fight out their quarrel, as was the case during the recent Turkish war.

Servians Repulse Bulgars; Many Are Made Prisoners

(By Associated Press.)

BELGRADE, July 5.—Bulgarian troops have attacked Zayetchar, a Servian frontier town, according to reports just received here. A serious engagement is expected during the day.

The newspapers state that the Bulgarian troops have been driven from the fortified positions in numerous crooks on the left banks of the rivers Bregalnitza and Zhelentza after their rst defeat. Large numbers of prisoners were taken by the Servians.

Servians Cheer Wildly as Wounded Bulgarians Die

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, July 5.—A disgraceful incident marked the arrival at Belgrade of 1,384 Bulgarian prisoners of war, according to a special dispatch from the Servian capital. The prisoners were marched through the streets by the troops and immense crowds of Servians, who closed in, cheering wildly at the rear of wagons loaded with wounded, lying three deep, many of them apparently dying. Even this did not stop the enthusiastic outburst of the mob, and the correspondent adds that peace between the two nations is impossible after this.

Turkey Prepares to Work Grab Game as Others Scrap

(By Associated Press.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 5.—The Ottoman government has not yet decided what action it will take in view of the Balkan crisis, but the opinion prevails here that Turkey will not allow the opportunity to escape of obtaining some material or moral benefit from the clash between the Balkan states.

(By Associated Press.)

VIENNA, July 5.—It is announced here from an unofficial source that Turkey has agreed to remain neutral in the Balkan conflict in return for the concession made by Bulgaria in connection with the war indemnity.

President Runs Into Sizzling Weather at New Summer Capital

(By Associated Press.)

CORNISH, N. H., July 5.—President Wilson in search of relief from the sizzling weather at Washington, found a temperature of 90 degrees in the shade awaiting him when he arrived at the Wilson summer home here today.

Mrs. Wilson and Miss Eleanor Wilson met the president at the railway station in Windsor, Vt., where a party of villagers greeted the president.

Stopping only long enough to nod his acknowledgements Mr. Wilson joined his family in an automobile and motored through three miles of dust to the Cedarcroft house.

The president informed the correspondents that he would do no work while here, but if there came from Washington an intimation of public business he would return to the capitol immediately. Otherwise he would remain here until Tuesday or Wednesday.

M'NAUGHTON TO FIGHT FOR LIFE AS STATE FREES MRS. FLANDERS

Judge F. H. Saffold, His Attorney, to Ask Governor to Commute Death Sentence to Life Imprisonment

STATE ADMITS LACK OF EVIDENCE ON MRS. FLANDERS

Attorney A. S. Bradley, of the Prosecution, Declares It Would Be Farcical to Send Accused Woman to Trial

Attorneys representing Dr. W. J. McNaughton, the Swainsboro physician, sentenced to hang for the murder of Fred Flanders, prominent Emanuel county citizen, and who has been in the shadow of the gallows for more than two years, will, through his attorneys, make a strong effort to induce Governor Slaton to commute his sentence to life imprisonment.

This action on the part of Dr. McNaughton's counsel will follow the nol prossing of the case against Mrs. Mattie Flanders, who was jointly indicted with the physician for the murder of her husband. Confirmation of The Journal's exclusive story to the effect that the case against Mrs. Flanders would be nol prossed when it is called in the Emanuel county superior court on July 14, is given by A. S. Bradley, of Williams & Bradley, the attorneys who are assisting the prosecution. Mr. Bradley says there is not sufficient evidence against Mrs. Flanders to justify her arraignment.

As soon as the case against Mrs. Flanders is quashed, Dr. McNaughton's attorneys will, it is said, file an application for executive clemency for him. This application will go first to the state prison commission and then to the governor.

When former Governor Brown granted the fourth and last respite to Dr. McNaughton he did so on the idea that Mrs. Flanders would be tried in July. This respite expires on September 9, and unless Governor Slaton interferes the physician will be hanged on that day.

Governor Slaton is not familiar with the McNaughton case. He states that he has formed no opinion as to the facts in the case and that he will be able to consider it upon its merits and without bias.

State's Lawyers Admit No Case Against Mrs. Flanders

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

SWAINSGORO, Ga., July 5.—Attorney A. S. Bradley, speaking for the prosecution, declared Monday that the case against Mrs. Flanders would be quashed. He said:

"The state does not expect to try the case against Mrs. Flanders, and I might add that the state will ask the court to enter a 'nol prosequi' to the indictment of Mrs. Flanders. This, in fact, seems to be the only honorable course to pursue. Frankly, so far as the attorneys representing the prosecution are concerned, we have been convinced of the fact ever since the trial of Dr. McNaughton and before the jury rendered a verdict in that case the matter was discussed among us that while the evidence showed, in our opinion, beyond a doubt, the guilt of Dr. McNaughton, yet the evidence was legally insufficient to connect Mrs. Flanders with the crime.

"There is great distinction between the cases against these two defendants, and this has been especially marked by the line of reasoning which the supreme court adopted in arriving at their judgment sustaining their verdict against Dr. McNaughton. The evidence showed clearly that he was the only physician and that he prescribed all the drugs administered to the deceased during his illness.

DELAYED TRIAL FOR PROOFS.

"The motive in the case of Mrs. Flanders may be strong enough, yet the state is not in possession of sufficient evidence to even lead to a conclusion that she was aware of the fact that the drugs being administered to her husband were poisonous, and, of course, unless the state would show that she at least had such guilty knowledge, it would be farcical to place her on trial.

"We have continued the trial so far for the sole reason that we felt that it might be possible more evidence would be obtained which would strengthen the state's case, but as this evidence has not been obtained and there seems to be no reasonable possibility that any stronger case can be made out at this time and as the case ought to be disposed of in justice to all concerned, we have decided to frankly state our position to the court and to ask that the indictment against the defendant be dismissed. This, of course, from a legal standpoint, simply disposes of the case as it now stands, and if it should transpire that more evidence can be brought to light in the future

Bulgars Flee in Wild Disorder From Greeks in Decisive Battle

Greek Newspaper "Atlantis" Receives Graphic Description of Friday's Battle at Kilkish–City Is Completely Destroyed

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 5.—A graphic story of the battle between Bulgarians and Greeks at Kilkish, twenty-five miles north of Saloniki, was received by the Greek daily newspaper "Atlantis," today direct from Saloniki. It says:

"The battle between the Bulgarians and Greeks at Kilkish ended at 10 o'clock in the morning of July 4 in the complete defeat of the Bulgarans after a severe bombardment of the town by the Greeks who carried the place at the point of the bayonet. The town was then occupied by a part of the Hellenic troops while their comrades continued the pursuit of the Bulgarians who had fled in disorder, leaving many of their field guns and machine guns in the hands of the Greek victors. More than sixty cannon were captured.

"Kilkish was almost completely destroyed by fire before the Bulgarians fled.

"The battle in front of Kilkish was more important than any of those fought by the allies in the campaign between Turkey and the Balkan states. The Bulgarians, who were much superior in numbers, had surrounded the town with defensive works and trenches nearly six feet in depth and very narrow so that the communications were sheltered from splinters of shells.

"Firing started at 8 o'clock Thursday morning. The Bulgarians had stationed their heavy artillery on the heights, from which they first fired with great precision, the distances having been marked before the opening of hostilities. The guns first opened at a range of two miles. Their field artillery was too much exposed on the plain below and they found it impossible to bring it into action.

"The Greek infantry received orders to advance by short rushes by the double quick so as to render ineffacious the marking of the distances by the Bulgarian artillery.

BULGARS DEMORALIZED.

"By 11 o'clock the Bulgarians had come to the conclusion that it was impossible to stop the advance of the Greeks, so they started a great conflagration along their front for a distance of over two miles in order to hide the movements of their army.

"The Greek light infantry, however, dashed forward, darted through the circle of flames and brought about the complete demoralization of the Bulgarian troops.

"In the meantime the Greek artillery had taken up fresh positions whence it opened a fierce cannonade, which soon reduced the Bulgarian batteries to silence.

"In the meantime the Greek infantry, with their bayonets fixed, had arrived within 30 feet of the Bulgarian trenches.

"Then ensued a wild spectacle. Greeks and Bulgarians being mixed together in a furious hand-to-hand fight.

"At 5 o'clock on Friday morning the Bulgarian lines had been pierced, but one of the heights around Kilkish still held out. It was occupied by a company of Bulgarians.

"The Greek light infantry dashed up the side of the hill to dislodge them and came into fierce contact which ended by the Bulgarians abandoning their munitions and their wounded, and flying in disorder toward Doiran, further south, with the Greek troops pursuing them without pity.

TRENCHES FILLED WITH DEAD.

"The trenches around Kilkish were filled with dead.

"The Greek army from Gheygheli has crossed the river Vardar and is marching to the assault of the almost impregnable gorges of Teurka, northwest of Doiran.

"The resistance offered there by the Bulgarians is much greater than at Kilkish, but they are gradually retreating and the capture of Doiran by the Greeks is merely a question of hours.

"The victory of the division at Nigrita also was complete. General Sotilles, commander of the Greek division, has telegraphed that a steamer be sent to Stavres to embark Bulgarian regiments with ten of its officers taken prisoners at Nigrita.

"It is said that the Bulgarian troops when they abandon the towns and villages devastated them after massacreing the women and children in a barbarous manner."

COURT DECREES SALE OF A., B. & A. HOLDINGS

Railroad's Mortgages Are Foreclosed to Satisfy Various Creditors

Judge Pardee of the United States circuit court of appeals, sitting as district judge, has directed entries of decrees of foreclosure and sale under the mortgages of the Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic Railroad company, Georgia Terminal company and the Alabama Terminal Railroad company. The amounts for which the foreclosures are to be had in the different cases is, Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic Railroad company, $17,873,715.07; Georgia Terminal company, $2,948,750.00; Alabama Terminal Railroad company, $2,218,231.00.

Victor L. Smith has been appointed special master to make the sales.

A reference is also directed to determine the apportionment between the different properties of the liens of the receivers' certificates, and the decrees provide for the payment of the receivers' certificates out of the proceeds of these sales.

Samuel H. Pillsbury of Boston, and Messrs. Slaton & Phillips appeared for the Old Colony Trust company, trustee under the mortgages and complainant in the suits, and Messrs. Rosser & Brandon appeared for the defendant corporations.

CERTIFICATES DEFAULTED.

Receivers' certificates amounting to $4,700,000 at five per cent matured on July 1 (last Tuesday) and the road was unable to retire them, although it paid the interest promptly. It was understood that the holders of the certificates probably would be willing to let them run along if the interest were raised to six per cent, but this impression evidently was erroneous. The term of the certificates was one year.

The inability of the road to retire the certificates appears to have been the immediate cause of the suit to foreclosure.

It is claimed that in the road as a whole there is something like $1,000,000 more equity than there was at the close of the fiscal year ending July 1, 1912, this amount having been spent for new rails, new locomotives, new warehouses, rock ballast, etc.

Although the liabilities of the road altogether run beyond twenty millions, as shown by the above condensed summary, it is claimed that the only securities ahead of the receiver's certificates are $5,000,000 worth of bonds on the old Atlanta & Birmingham properties, on which the new system has never missed an interest payment.

The total cost of the road as a whole was something like $35,00,000, which, together with the amount expended for new equipment during the past fiscal year, would represent an investment of $36,000,000.

MRS. OLIVE S. SHAW HEARS CALL OF DEATH

Friends of Mrs. Olive Sampson Shaw, of Quincy, Fla., will regret to learn of her death at a local sanitarium early Friday morning. Her death was caused by the explosion of an alcohol stove. She was rushed to Atlanta for treatment, and it was thought for a while that she would recover, but a relapse Thursday night ended in her death.

Little Miss of Twelve Thinks Court Should Let Her Pick Home

Accordingly, She Has a Dignified Interview With Judge and Later Takes Matter Into Her Own Hands

Charlotte Burnham is a little miss of only twelve summers, but courts and judges do not awe her, and she doesn't even need a lawyer to represent her, when she has business with them.

She proved this Wednesday, when she called Judge George L. Bell over the telephone and made an engagement to "confer with him at the court."

The little miss arrived at the court, unescorted save by a big doll, which seldom leaves her, and after waiting about a short time, she had her "conference" with the jurist.

The little girl gravely told Judge Bell that she did not want to live with her paternal grandmother, in whose custody she had been placed by the court, but much preferred her mother, from whom she had been taken.

Accordingly she asked the jurist to allow her to change residences and guardians.

The jurist is said to have kindly explained to the child that the matter of her custody had been settled long ago in the formal court, where her mother and her father, C. R. Burnham, bato were represented by counsel, and that the court's order could not be changed. Then the judge is said to have advised little Charlotte to remain with her grandmother and try to be happy.

Evidently the little miss decided that as she was the person most concerned, she should have the right to choose her own guardian, and she was not a whit dismayed by the court's advice and direction.

After the conference with the court, she phoned for a dray to go to the home of her grandmother, Mrs. J. P. Burnham, 48 Simpson street. When it arrived she had already packed her own trun k.and, in the absence of her grandmother, she had it moved to 140 Spring street, where her mother, Mrs. Laura Burnham, is living.

When J. McSwain Woods, counsel for the father, who has been fighting in the courts for years to keep his daughter from his former wife's custody, learned that CShariotte had arbitrarily decided on a chance of residence he notified the officers of the juvenile court, who took her in charge.

As a result she has been spending several days at the central avenue detention home. Saturday afternoon before Probation Officer Tindall an informal hearing of the case is to be had, and Charlotte forced by an ocer to return to her residence.

Charlotte's mother and father had been figuring in the courts for several years. Their troubles became public first when C. R. Burnham met W. C. Hendrix, formerly a well-known Atlantian, on the street with Mrs. Burnham ,and a knife duel resulted. ater suit for divorce was filed, and a bitter fight has been waged over Charlotte's custody. Burnham is now in the west, it is said.

SAFE ROBBER ADMITS HE'S EX-CONVICT AND TELLS STORY OF CRIME

Man Who Blew Safe in Kirkwood Postoffice and Was Wounded by Posse Left Federal Prison February 22 Last

PARDON PETITION FOR PAL IN HIS POCKET

Midnight Battle Fought With Citizens After Safe Is Blown, Columbia, S. C., Thinks Robber May Be "Portland Ned"

Walter Turpin, self-confessed yeggman and former inmate of the Atlanta federal penitentiary, lay back on his narrow cot in the DeKalb county jail and groaned.

"I was just crazy drunk and did something I was a d—n fool for doing," he said.

The "something" was the cracking of the Kirkwood postoffice safe at midnight Friday which resulted in a fight between Turpin and the town officers in which Turpin was shot through the body three inches from his heart.

The noise of the discharge of nitroglycerine gave the alarm, the officers engaged the safe-blower in a duel with revolvers in the dark. Turpin was wounded and later taken to the county jail at Decatur.

At first he gave the name of J. W. Johnson, of Philadelphia.

"But shucks," he declared at the jail. "That ain't my name. Johnson just happened to pop into my head. I'm Walter Turpin and I left the federal prison on the 22d, of February."

Turpin says that passing counterfeit money was his first criminal offense, that after leaving the penitentiary he worked until he was taken ill. Drink was his ruin, he declares, for it was in a drunken debauch that he cracked the Kirkwood safe, he says. At the same time he admits that two weeks ago he journeyed to Kirkwood, went all over the postoffice and resolved some day to commit the deed.

Turpin's jail is the home of Sheriff McCurdy, of DeKalb county. Set in a little grove of oak trees, a few steps from the street, the sheriff's house is at once his home and his office, the front part an ordinary dwelling, the rear a chain of cells, four or five in all.

Turpin was found asleep, lying on a narrow cot, his hands picking nervously at the bandaged wound. In the cell next to him was Ernest Bailey, held for the slaying of a negro in front of his store several days ago. Standing in the inside door of Turpin's cell was a black man, Ernest Maynard, the man who is believed to be connected with the murder of the Stevens family on the McDonough road, a month or more ago.

Maynard stooped over and aroused the yegg. Turpin was clad in a blue shirt and trousers. His face was like a square block of granite, the head wellnigh bald, the eyes a cold steel blue. The prison pallor had left its mark.

HE TELLS HIS STORY.

Then he talked. His sentences came in quick, short jerks, interrupted now and then by a groan as his wound twitched evilly.

"Yes," he said, "my name is Turpin. I was born in Bedford county, Va., thirty-six years ago. I've got three sisters living that I know."

He answered questions, but was very reticent. According to his story, he used to work in a tailor's shop, but was sent up for passing counterfeit money over five years ago. They caught him in Richmond.

"That was my first offense," he declared. "I served five years in the Atlanta pen, all but the good time. When they let me out I stayed in Atlanta. For about eight weeks I worked for the Shoe Renury on Auburn avenue. You see, I had learned to be a cobbler in the pen, the only trade I ever had."

Turpin got sick. It seems, and for the last five weeks was under the care of a physician. In his pocket was a book containing the names of many prominent Atlanta folk, characterized as "parties to see." Either Turpin was looking for help for himself or he

WOMAN SAYS HER HAND FIRED PISTOL IN CLUB

Mrs. Ballew Declares She Shot Convict Guard by Accident—Released on Bond

Mrs. Lucy Bell, of 18 Lynch street, has admitted to the city detectives that her hand held the revolver with which A. C. Thompson, transfer guard at the Bellwood convict camp, was shot late Friday afternoon, while sitting in the Owls club, corner of Pryor and Mitchell streets.

Many conflicting stories about the affair have been related, but the detectives are now satisfied that the shooting was an accident. However, both Mrs. Ballew and Thompson will be arraigned in the recorder's court Tuesday afternoon on a charge of disorderly conduct.

W. H. Holbrooks, of 15 Lynch street, brother-in-law of Mrs. Ballew, has signed bonds for $500 each, on which both principals have been released from the custody of the police.

Mrs. Ballew, who first denied knowledge of the shooting, according to Chief Lanford, now says that the convict guard removed his coat, while they were sitting in the club parlors, and placed his gun on top of the piano, which she was playing.

Later she took the gun in her own hand and was toying with it, when it was discharged, she said.

At the Grady hospital, where Thompson was sent by detectives when he had failed in his attempt to leave the club in a cab, it was found that the bullet grazed his right thigh and inflicted a flesh wound in the calf of the left leg. The latter was the only wound Thompson spoke about and it was some hours after the affair that it was found that the bullet had touched both legs.

Thompson still contends that if Mrs. Ballew shot him, he does not know it. The last time he saw the gun, he says, it was on the piano at the club.

The police at first held the woman, who has been separated for two years from her husband, an iron moulder, under a $1,000 bond, but after she admitted that she held the revolver and they satisfied themselves that the shooting was an accident, her bail was reduced to $100.

wished to get these people to sign a petition asking for a pardon for one Pasquale Rosco de Franco, "a friend of his," who was in a prison at Paterson, N. J. Turpin declares, also, that he himself was never in that state.

HIS FIRST SAFE.

"I was feeling bad," continued Turpin, "and I took to drink. A few weeks ago I came out to Kirkwood and looked over that joint, but I couldn't make up my mind to crack the safe. Friday night I got drunk. Where did I get the whiskey? Somewhere along about Decatur and Courtland I met a man. It was good whiskey, too. But I didn't think I could do the thing I did."

He maintains that what is the first time he has ever cracked a safe.

"I came out to Kirkwood on the car," said Turpin. "I got in the building all right, but I fell down the elevator shaft and almost broke my leg. I couldn't have run even if they hadn't pinched me. Then after that I shot a charge under the safe it just knocked the handle off. I waited about twenty minutes and shot the next. That played the dickens. Then they got me."

Despite his assertion that he had never "yegged" before, Turpin gave an intelligent talk on "How to Crack a Safe."

"I used nitroglycerin," he said. "Where did I get it? Well, I couldn't say, but you generally get it by boiling dynamite. Soak your dynamite in warm water, squeeze it with your hand, and the nitro runs out. Two sticks of dynamite will give you enough to crack a safe with. When you get to your safe, get a cup made of soap, lay the cap in it, and touch 'er off. That anywhere will do to lay the charge. I laid mine in a crack in the safe door. I used four ounces of nitro. How much noise did it make? Say, have you ever heard anybody blast?"

What Turpin's object was in cracking the safe he would not say, other than to repeat that he was "crazy drunk." He admitted that he was almost "broke," although $25.10 was found in his pocket. He declared that he intended to stay in Atlanta after doing his work.

SAYS HE WAS ALONE.

One subject brought from him a short "no" each time. That was, "Did anybody help you?" Sheriff McCurdy declares that Turpin was probably alone, but the chances are that the man would protect a "pal" anyway.

Turpin was asked again about his counterfeit money passing.

"That's all past and gone," he replied. "Don't let's talk about it any more."

He stretched out his back and spread a paper across his face. Another groan broke from him.

"I'd be better off," he muttered, "if the guy that did this had killed me!"—he paused. "Still, I don't know; it's pretty hot down there now."

Turpin's wounds are not serious and main by reports from various sources, the people at 226 1-2 Marietta street, where Turpin stayed and where the picture was found that corresponds with him exactly, and the authorities at the federal prison. A warden from there will visit the DeKalb county jail to see the man Saturday afternoon.

Turpin's wounds are not serious and he will recover unless lockjaw or complications set in. The bullet was removed from the spot where it had lodged just back of his left side. A rib, which deflected its course, was all that saved his life.

A preliminary hearing may be held Saturday afternoon if Turpin is well enough to leave his cell. An early trial will be set for him in the DeKalb county court.

Since his release the man has been living in Atlanta under the patronage of prison workers seeking his reform, and under the care of a physician retained by them. He has served some 18 years or so in various prisons, according to one of those prison workers, and has a bad criminal record.

The same authority states that his reformation was regarded from the first as an almost hopeless task. He had been conducting himself fairly well, however, until about two weeks ago, when he got on a spree, and was asked to leave the Union Rescue mission, where he had been staying, at 234 Marietta street.

In the man's room, at 226 1-2 Marietta street were found a number of postage stamps and post cards, along with miscellaneous personal effects.

BATTLE AROUSES TOWN.

A number of shots were fired, arousing the town of Kirkwood from its slumbers, in effecting the capture of the safeblower very early Saturday morning. According to descriptions by those who took part, it was a veritable duel in the dark, beginning when Marshal Phillips flashed his light squarely by accident into the eyes of the hunted man. Yet no one was hit except the robber; and he was hit but once, receiving the slight flesh wound from which Grady hospital surgeons extracted the bullet a couple of hours later.

The fight and capture occurred in the grocery store of Cassels & Fleming, at Kirkwood station, on the main Decatur trolley line, across the railroad tracks from the trolley, in front of General John B. Gordon's former home.

Shortly before 1 o'clock Saturday morning Town Marshal Phillips was called to the telephone by Mrs. Cassels, who stated that her husband had just heard two explosions in the store and surmised that come one was wrecking the safe. Mr. Cassels wanted the marshal there to help capture the robber. Arrived at the store, the marshal found Mr. Cassels and Mr. Fleming waiting for him, with Town Clerk O. O. Ray. Mr. Ray mounted guard and the others entered. Mr. Phillips heard a noise, flashed his light there, saw the intruder crouched behind a barrel, fired, and the man disappeared, only to reappear a moment later squarely in the store aisle in which the marshall stood. He approached the marshal, firing as he came, the marshal replying, each aiming four shots. Mr. Cassels and Mr. Fleming also fired once or twice. Then the marshal and the safe blower grappled, the marshal throwing him, seizing his revolver and learning that his prisoner was wounded.

HAD BLOWN SAFE.

Technically, the robber had not entered the postoffice, which is partitioned away from the main part of the store, but he had tried to force the lock there and had failed, he said. However, the safe that he blew had among its contents the valuables of the postoffice—the stamps, currency, etc. The first explosion blew off the combination of the safe, he explained. The second stripped the safe of its outer door, as the officers found it. He had not succeeded in getting to the contents.

In the envelope addressed to J. Curpin, 234 Marietta, was the petition for the pardon of a federal prisoner, and a letter from the prisoner's brother. The letter read as follows:

"Paterson, N. J., July 2, 1913.

"Dear Friend: I have delayed a little to answer your letter as I was waiting for my brother in reply, the petition to the president that I had sent him to sign. I am inclosing petition and hope you will get as many signatures as possible. I am working on one here and have most full. I had the mayor to sign it. My brother asked about you in his last letter. Said he had not heard from you. Thanking you in advance and wishing the best of everything, I remain.

"Yours respectfully,

(Signed) "PASQUALE DEFRANCO."

"P. S. Hope this finds you completely recovered from the indisposition you spoke about in your letter."

The letter is handwritten, the signature and body being in the same writing.

The petition reads as follows:

"We, the undersigned petitioners, residing as stated below, respectfully ask your excellency to grant a pardon to Rocco DeFranco, who makes the above application, and base our request upon the following grounds:

"The young man has been confined for almost three years, having been sentenced in September, 1910.

"Prior to this conviction he had always been a law-abiding young man, this being his first offense. The term served we think is sufficient punishment.

"He has been a good prisoner, and if released at this time we feel sure he will not in any way transgress the law in the future."

Turpin explained to the officers that DeFranco is in the federal prison, and is a good friend of his. DeFranco has served two years and a half of a five-year sentence for counterfeiting.

The police stated that the safe-blower's right name is Thomas W. Turpin, according to other letters which they found in his room at 226 1-2 Marietta. He stopped in the Union Rescue Mission until several days ago, they said, when the authorities of the mission, not liking his actions, asked him to move.

Walter C. Turpin, released from the Federal Prison February 22, of this year, was sent to prison from Virginia, and was wanted by the Virginia authorities at the time for having escaped from the state penitentiary there. At the time of his release, however, the Virginia authorities had concluded that they would not send for him, and accordingly he was not reagrested. He was supposed to secure employment in the city immediately after he left the prison.

ROOMMATE TALKS.

According to Tolliver Eberhart, a fourteen-year-old newsboy, formerly of Dunwoody, Ga., who roomed with Turpin at 226 1-2 Marietta street, and who was taken to police headquarters Saturday morning and questioned by the police, Turpin was somewhat of a night owl in his habits, rolling in at late hours nearly every evening. Also, said the youth, Turpin was brought in drunk Friday evening about 9 o'clock by Superintendent Bardwell, of the Union Rescue mission, nearby. Mr. Bardwell said Turpin had blundered back into the mission and tried to get into a bed. Tolliver Eberhart said that his roommate was dumped into bed, and apparently went soundly to sleep. Later in the night he himself awoke and found Turpin's bed empty.

Not "Portland Ned," as Believed in Columbia

Dispatches from Columbia, S. C., based upon the early reports Saturday that a man giving the name of T. W. Johnson had been shot while attempting to rob the postoffice safe at Kirkwood, relate that the story of the capture was received there with great interest inasmuch as James W. Johnson is "Portland Ned," who escaped from the office of Governor Blease in the South Carolina statehouse after the governor had paroled him from the state penitentiary and while a federal officer was waiting at the doors to get him. The spectacular affair of "Portland Ned's" getaway under such unusual circumstances made his supposed re-capture doubly interesting to South Carolina readers.

But the assumption apparently is without other foundation than that the man first gave his name as J. W. Johnson. Later in the morning, Saturday, he was identified satisfactorily as Walter P. Turpin, released from the federal prison in February and under the eyes of philanthropists in Atlanta constantly since his release. The man admitted that he is Turpin. A photograph found in his room was identified as that of the man under arrest; and the same photograph was identified as that of the man released from the federal prison under the name of Turpin.

The work on Peachtree road from Fifteenth street to Buckhead is being pushed as rapidly as is possible with the county force, he said.

During the meeting a numer of routine matters were disposed of by the committee.

MAD DOG BITES MEN; CHILDREN TERRORIZED

J. A. LaHatte and H. A. Haley Attacked by Bulldog With Rabies

While J. A. LaHatte, nineteen years old, was visiting friends at 286 Washington street Friday afternoon, his bulldog, which he had left on the front porch, went mad and bit H. A. Haley, creating a panic in the section.

LaHatte, with the dog, arrived at 286 Washington street, the home of J. W. Clarke, at 3 o'clock and entered, leaving the dog outside. Shortly the beast began to howl and run about, LaHatte went outside and quieted him. On his return to the room, little Jerome Clark opened the outside door and the dog bounded in.

Dashing into the downstairs room, the dog leaped at H. A. Haley, of Augusta, biting him on the arm. LaHatte also was attacked, but escaped with a scratch or so. The dog then ran upstairs. Several of the Clark children were in an upper room and LaHatte shouted to them to close the door. They did so and the dog ran into the next room. When LaHatte followed him the animal plunged through a window glass to the roof of the porch.

He was only prevented from leaping to the ground by LaHatte, who grabbed hold of him.

An officer passing the house was called in and the dog was shot. The body will be examined some time Saturday to see if the dog had the rabies.

CITY WILL EXPERIMENT WITH ROAD TAR BINDER

Gas Company Product to Be Used Instead of Chert, Other Street Matters

The street committee of council Friday afternoon decided to try the tar binder made by the Atlanta Gas Light company as an experiment on a number of streets instead of laying chert.

A salesman of the company appeared before the committee and quoted a price of less than six cents per gallon, whereas the cheapest price quoted heretofore was nine cents. He said the binder has given satisfaction on the automobile drive to East Lake, and has been tried with good results by members of cities, some larger than Atlanta. The binder is particularly good for streets where the traffic is not heavy, he said.

Members of the council have realized for a long time that chert pavement is not satisfactory. It looks good when first laid, but cannot withstand heavy rains, which wash it full of holes and gullies. As the road tar binder will not cost much more than chert, the street committee was therefore ready to try it as an experiment, in the hope of finding at low cost a good pavement for streets where traffic is light.

On motion of Councilman Wood, the committee passed a resolution directing the construction department to advise for bids for material to be used in regrading West Peachtree street from Peachtree street to Pine street. The county will be ready to put convicts to work on this job on September 15.

MUZZLING ORDER STIRS GA. MILITARY CIRCLES

Opinion Advanced That Gov. Brown Sought to Relieve Self of Embarrassment

That famous "muzzling" order issued by former Governor Brown and promulgated by Adjutant General J. Van Holt Nash, which forbids officers and members of the militia to discuss for publication any phase of the August street car strike of last fall or any military legislation pending before the general assembly, has created somewhat of a sensation among the militiamen of the state, some of whom view it with indignation and as unwarranted officiousness.

The opinion is advanced in some quarters that the former governor, smarting under the criticisms directed against his military policy by the labor unions and others throughout the state, sought through this order to check, as far as possible, an agitation which was proving embarrassing.

In the stories acquainting the public with the "muzzling" order it was unintentionally made to appear that it was principally directed against Maj. Claude C. Smith, of Atlanta, the judge advocate of the Georgia National Guard.

General Nash sent a copy of the order to Major Smith, which was incorporated in a letter discussing the inadvisability of calling a meeting of the National Guard Association of Georgia during the recent state rifle shoot for the purpose of discussing legislation of interest in the militia.

This order was not in any sense a rebuke for anything Major Smith had uttered or published. It was general in its nature and was designed, it is said, to head off the publication of anything regarding the proposed new riot laws. Although a number of the military officials have been quoted in defense of the conduct of the troops in the August strike, Major Smith was not one of those who gave out interviews on this subject.

Major Smith consistently has refused to express an opinion on the conduct of the soldiers at Augusta. As judge advocate it became his duty to prosecute the soldiers charged with shooting and killing three Augusta citizens who passed over the military "dead line."

"Major Smith made the following statement Saturday:

"I have never given out an interview or been quoted as to the conduct of the troops during the Augusta riots. As judge advocate, I prosecuted the soldiers before the courtmartial. I have not even expressed an opinion on the conduct of the troops or the verdict of the court. Court officials should not discuss cases.

"The one and only interview given out by me was that which I gave The Journal some months ago. It contained proposed new laws recommended in the adjutant general's report for 1912 and approved by most of the officers of the National Guard association.

"There were three of these proposed laws. One related to a change of time where rioting was imminent, and the third led to the suspension by the governor of any sheriff who fails to summon a posse when rioting is imminent or in progress. These suggested changes in the laws were for the purpose of minimizing the necessity for calling out troops."

Members of County Police Force Urge That Work on Fund Continue

The men on the force held the dead officer in very high esteem, and with one accord they voice a sincere request that the work for the increase of the fund be not allowed to lag, for the family of Officer Yancy is in need of all that can be raised.

FERTILIZER INSPECTORS FAR AWAY FROM POSTS

Former Commissioner Connor Gave Places to N. Ga. Men for S. Ga. Work

It will cost the state of Georgia about thirty dollars to inspect a shipment of fertilizer at Thomasville. This unusually large inspection expense will be necessaryq because the fertilizer inspector nearest to Thomasville resides in Pike county, i the northwestern portion of the state.

When he came to appoint the six long term fertilizer inspectors last fall J. J. Connorfi, the then commissioner, gave most of these places to men residing in north Georgia. Only one inspector was appointed who lived south of Macon and he was a resident of Chatham county.

The other five long-term inspectors are citizens of the following counties: Bartow, Cobb, Jackson, Coweta and Pike.

Mr. Connor more evenly distributed the short-term inspectors—thos who serve but four months a year. The 19313 terms of these inspectors ended June 1st, and, therefore, none of them can be called upon to make inspections before the season of 1914.

It is worthy of note that although most of the fertilizer used in the state goes on south Georgia lands, Mr. Connor gave most of the inspectors' places to north Georgia men.

Since he has been in office Commissioner Price has had requests to send inspectors to several south Georgia towns and in each instance the cost to the state has been considerable, but there was nothing else for him to do.

THEATERS

(Criticisms of initial performances at the local theaters are written by members of The Journal staff. All other matter appearing in this column is furnished by the theater managements.")

Grand—Talking Pictures.
FORSYTH—Vaudeville.
BIJOU—Tabloid Musical Comedy.

Matinee and night performances at the Forsyth Saturday complete the engagement of the seven acts which so cleverly entertained all week.

Commencing with Monday matinee and continuing all during the week, with regular schedule of performances, a new combination of Keith vaudeville, headed by two headline acts, will be presented.

The headliners are Cecil Lean & Co., presenting Mr. Lean's satire "The Motion Picture Man." The other headliner will be Eva Taylor & Co. presenting a clever playlet, "After the Wedding."

Both of these acts have distinguished themselves throughout the circuits, and are making their first appearance here in Atlanta. They are totally unlike in theme, and will unquestionably prove to be big drawing cards.

Warren and Blanchard, the blackface singing comedians; Hines and Fox, piano players and singers, and other good acts make up the offering.

The Grand offerings at matinee and night today of Edison's Talking Pictures, concludes the first week of the introduction of this innovation in motion pictures. Edison's invention is one of the wonders of the modern century. He has actually harnessed a picture machine and the phonograph in perfect synchronism, the pictures really talking.

Hundreds of people have presented themselves at matinee and night performances skeptical, and have left the theater thoroughly convinced of the truth of the declaration that Edison is the wizard of the world.

More than ordinary interest doubtless will be shown in next week's musical comedy at the Bijou. Minnie Palmer's and Norman Friedenwald's 1912 Cabaret Revue, entitled "Along Broadway," will be the attraction. The company is a large one, featuring as its principal fun-makers, Will Stanton and Rosalind May, ad includes in its list of performers several vaudeville artists who add no little to the succes of the show. The vaudeville numbers will include soft and wooden shoe dancing, violin solos, harmony singing and eccentric dances. The musical numbers announced include several of the latest songs that will become immensely popular before the week is over. "Along Broadway" will occupy the boards of the Bijou the entire week with daily matinees and night performances at 7:30 and 9 o'clock.

COMMITTEE ON EXHIBIT TO BE NAMED MONDAY

Work on Permanent Display of Atlanta-Made Goods Will Go on Rapidly

Brooks Morgan, chairman of the committee on a permanent exhibit of Atlanta-made goods, will make known Monday the special committee he will appoint to investigate the proposition and secure, if possible, a site for the building to be used for that purpose.

At the chamber of commerce banquet tendered the manufacturers at the Hotel Ansley Thursday night, Wilmer L. Moore, president of the chamber of commerce, appointed Mr. Morgan as the chairman of this committee with the power to make his own selection as to his co-workers.

Owing to the importance of the proposition, the chairman is going slowly and will appoint only those who express a willingness to work and help bring the matter to a successful consummation. Five members have been named so far and expressed their willingness to give a great part of their time to the proposition. The remaining members will be chosen later—completing the committee of seven as specified.

The movement is now entirely in the hands of the manufacturers, with Mr. Morgan and his committee to pilot it to success.

FIGHT FOR NEWT LEE'S FREEDOM IS DELAYED

Bernard Chappell, His Lawyer, Expects to Bring Habeas Corpus on Monday

Bernard L. Chappell, attorney for Newt Lee, the negrow atchman, who found the body of Mary Phagan, declared Saturday that he had been unable to complete all of his work in connection with his proposed filing of a habeas corpus writ in an effort to liberate his client.

Mr. Chappelle said that he had expected to file the writ Saturday, but was delayed, and is now certain he can file it by Monday morning.

Mr. Chappell asserted that sensational developments might be expected when the writ is heard.

100,000 TRAINMEN MAY SOON STRIKE IN EAST

Fifteen Per Cent Increase in Wages Asked—Strike Vote Completed

NEW YORK, July 5.—Brotherhood of Railroad Conductors and Trainmen officials were busy today completing the count of the ballot on the question of a strike of the 100,000 trainmen and conductors on the eastern railroads. The result of the vote will be submitted to the railroads before it is made public, but in anticipation of the result Elisha Lee, chairman of the railroad managers' committee, admitted today that the railroads had received advices giving the vote to an overwhelmingly in favor of a strike if ordered by the leaders.

Although it has been known that the men wanted increases of about 15 per cent in wages, the details of the demands were published for the first time today. For passenger service, on runs of 155 miles or more a day, conductors on steam and electric trains want $2.90 cetns a mile, baggagemen 1.85 cents a mile, flagmen or rear brakemen 1.80 cents a mile, and brakemen 1.74 cents a mile. On runs of less than 155 miles conductors want $4.50 a day, baggagemen $2.90, flagmen or rear brakemen $2.80 and brakemen $2.10. There are other specifications in detail for over time work, including the demand that trainmen who are ready for service the entire month and who do not lay off on their own accord receive $135 a month, in the case of conductors; $87 for baggagemen, $84 for brakemen.

In the freight service the demands are on the basis of 4.18 cents a mile for conductors on through trains and 4.84 cents a mile on way trains.

The Chicago standard of wages is demanded for all railroad yards with ten hours or less to constitute a day's work and over time to be paid as time and a half.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Walter Carter, a negro convicted at Albany, Ga., June 22, 1911, of stealing a letter containing a check and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary, was given his freedom today by President Wilson on the ground that the sentence had been unusually severe. He has served the equivalent of two and on-half years.

Well, all the rest of July will be sane enough.

The eagle screamed just as lustily as a two-year-old.

The weather at least stayed on the job on the Fourth.

Amphibious Atlanta.

There can be no doubt that Atlanta is aquatically disposed. The Piedmont park lake has been open for swimming about six weeks, within which time it has been visited by some forty-six thousand bathers. During the entire season last year this number was not greatly in excess of thirty-five thousand, a fact which shows by what leaps the popularity of the lake is increasing. A resort that affords wholesome recreation to more than a thousand people every summer's day is certainly a good investment for the city that maintains it.

The bathing facilities and supervision of the lake are much better this season than last. The water is pure, its environs have been made more attractive and a competent life-saving service has been provided. These improvements required money but every dollar spent has been coined into public pleasure and has made the city more livable and inviting. It is to be hoped that the Park department will be given continually larger appropriations with which it can not only maintain this lake but also develop others in different sections of the city.

This must be done, if Atlanta is to measure up to the needs of the metropolis she is so rapidly becoming. For the modern city, recreation centers are not luxuries but necessities which are interwoven with the community's most vital interests—its health and education. A city without a park would be a far more pitiable thing than a child without a toy.

Atlanta has made distinctive progress of recent years in the development of a park system, but it should be remembered that a growing population demands ever increasing facilities of this character. The park department is entitled to sustained and liberal support in carrying forward its great work which lies so close to the hearts and the human needs of the people.

The amateur gardener also suffered from the heat.

Too often the soul kiss breeds the germs of ailmony.

Fireworks and waterworks both on the glorious Fourth.

Show us the shooting scrape that wasn't in some way mysterious.

The Rural Letter Carriers.

If there was ever a convention *entitled to a par*ticularly cordial welcome in the State's capital, it is that of the Georgia Rural Letter Carriers' Association which is now assembled in Atlanta for its tenth annual meeting. No single agency has meant more to the country's development than the free delivery of mails in rural districts. It is a constant, far-reaching influence for the enrichment of farm life. It links the wayside mountain home to the centers of national thought and progress and is a steady guide to education and good citizenship.

Like all institutions, however, the rural free delivery depends for its character and vitality upon the rank and file of the men who are performing its duties from day to day. They constitute its human and, therefore, its essential element. To the extent that they realize the importance of their work and measure up to the standards of their service, to that extent the rural free delivery of mails becomes a blessing to each community.

Hence the significance of the Association now convened in Atlanta, an association organized to promote the highest interests of the work in which its members are engaged. To such counsels as this, the efficiency which the service has attained is very largely due; indeed, their influence has spread far beyond the immediate sphere of mail delivery. The progress of the good roads cause in Georgia owes *much to the discussions and plans of such conven*tions, backed up by the efforts, collective and individual, of the Association.

The rural letter carriers play a distinctive part in the advancement of Georgia as of all other States. We trust that their present meeting will be unusually profitable to them and to their important field of work.

The tariff is going down at Washington, even if the mercury goes up.

The Fourth of July is also to be thanked for breaking the hot spell.

True love never dies, but it frequently gets stranded a long way from home.

Incidentally, President Wilson delivered the finest address at Gettysburg that has been heard in many a long year.

Bulgaria's Reverses.

Though there has been no declaration of war in the Balkans, the Bulgars, and Serbs and Greeks are fighting among themselves as fiercely as they ever did in their common cause against the Turks. It seems that until the eleventh hour there was hope of composing the differences that had arisen over territorial lines. The larger Powers were bringing to bear such influence as they could and Russia, in particular, was exerting her diplomacy in behalf of peace. But the spirit of aggressiveness on the part of Servia and Greece and of stiff-necked defiance on Bulgaria's overleaped all negotiations; and before the disputants themselves fairly realized what was happening, their armies were locked in battle.

The fighting thus far seems to have been decidedly adverse to the Bulgarians. The Greek troops have swept forward with remarkable success and the Servians, though beaten back in several engagements, have dealt telling blows upon their big neighbor. Bulgaria has remained uncompromising toward the demands of Greece and Servia, in the belief that she could easily overcome any effort these countries might make, either singly or combined. Evidently she has reckoned without her host and now she may bethink herself of concessions, where formerly she was unwilling to yield an inch.

European observers, notably the London Times, are of the opinion that the reverses of the Bulgarian forces may incline that Government to accept without further parley the good offices of the Russian emperor and submit the questions at issue to arbitration. This view is strengthened by the fact that Roumania is mobilizing her army with the evident purpose of turning to her own advantages any serious embarrassment into which Bulgaria may fall.

The fact is Bulgaria's ambition to dominate Balkan affairs to the exclusion of her neighbors has led her into distressing complications. She is now reminded rather sharply that the war against Turkey was not won by her forces alone but by the Balkan alliance and that the same mettle which the soldiers of Greece and of Servia displayed in that conflict is now ready to withstand with equal vigor her own domineering policy. Greece is determined to hold Salonica; Servia is determined to secure an outlet to the Adriatic, which is essential to her commercial progress and her political safety. These are the claims which Bulgaria has thus far resisted. Apparently they are issues which can be satisfactorily adjusted, if arbitration were once given a fair chance. Upon their peaceful settlement, depends the future strength of the Balkan federation and largely, too, the harmony of Europe.

Judging by the crowds of people on the street, there are enough immigrant summer tourists to take the place of the emigrants.

A Hay Show.

Farmers in the territory between Atlanta and Marietta have conceived the interesting and praiseworthy plan of holding a hay show. At a recent meeting they subscribed a fund sufficient to meet the incidental expenses and also to offer attractive premiums for the best products displayed. The show will be staged at Smyrna early next autumn and will doubtless bring many exhibitors and visitors from all the surrounding counties.

As a means of arousing and educating common interest in this important sphere of Georgia agriculture, no better enterprise could be undertaken. Upon a larger home production of food supplies, the progress of our farms very largely depends. The people of this State are spending millions of dollars annually in importing corn, cattle, hay and other such products from distant sections at high prices. Indeed, it has been estimated that there is a deficit of thirty-seven million dollars every year between the value of our cotton crop and the cost of our imported foodstuffs.

If the State is to enjoy its due measure of prosperity, this condition of affairs must be altered. As one means to that end, the State corn show which is conducted under the auspices of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce is exceedingly vaulable. Hay shows like that to be held at Smyrna will prove correspondingly useful; for, it is commonly agreed among students of agriculture that if Georgia is successfully to engage in the raising of cattle she must first produce the forage that is necessary to their sustenance.

The soil of this State is particularly well adapted to the growth of nutritious grasses. Crops of this kind can be raised here with less labor and expense than in many other States where the cattle industry has become famously profitable. The farmers of this section who have determined to raise more hay and better hay are setting a fine example which, it is to be hoped, will be followed throughout the State.

The political band wagon has need of an emergency brake.

THE PHILIPPINES

XXIII.—THE PROTESTANT CHURCH.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Many private institutions are aiding Uncle Sam in his humanitarian and honorable task of raising the Filipino people to a higher level of civilization. Foremost among these perhaps, as in all other parts of the world, stand the forces of religion. The Roman Catholic church and the various Protestant sects enact their usual role of Good Samaritans as they go about the islands preaching their various doctrines. Catholicism in the Philippines will be treated in the next article.

The term Protestant in the Philippines means not only religion but implies the existence of new ethical and spiritual elements in the islands. Prior to 1898 the Protestant faith was unknown to the Philippines because a ruling of the Spanish crown, long standing and rigidly maintained, absolutely prohibited the inculcation of any but the Catholic religion.

Protestant missionaries found their way into the islands almost before the echoes of Dewey's bombardment of the Spanish fleet in Manila Bay had died away. The pioneer missionary was the Rev. Dr. James B. Rodgers, of the Presbyterian faith, who arrived in 1898 and immediately began services for the American soldiers. In this work he was assisted by various Protestant chaplains in the army. Dr. Rodgers is a New Yorker and had previous missionary experience in Brazil. He has been in charge of Presbyterianism in the Philippines since that time. He has a sister, Mrs. *Larson, who has been assisting her husband in spread*ing Presbyterianism among the Mongolians for the past fifteen years.

The first Methodists to get on the ground were the Rev. Dr. Homer C. Stuntz, formerly an American lawyer, and Bishop J. W. Pratch. Both went to the islands after several years of service in India. Dr. Stuntz served as superintendent of the Methodist forces until 1907, when he returned to the United States to be assistant secretary of the Methodist foreign missionary board. He is now Methodist bishop for South America, to which post his husband is also elected last year. Deacon Prautch gave up the work a few years ago and is now a rubber planter.

Y. M. C. A. secretaries were on the ground almost from the first in the persons of Messrs. Jackson and Gluntz. They worked very effectively among the soldiers, the army camps, and on the battleships. Mr. Jackson left with the troops about two years later, but Mr. Gluntz continued to be connected with Protestant activities off and on, and at present is a professor in the Silliman institute, a Protestant college, at Dumaguete, Oriental Negros province. Episcopal, Baptist, United Brethren and the Church of Christ forces were *also quick to send workers into the new vine*yard. At the head of the Episcopal mission has always been Charles H. Brent, formerly a Boston rector, now a bishop.

It might be supposed that so many Protestant denominations, each striving in its own way, might fall to quarreling among themselves as to which should pluck the brand from the burning. This is not the case, and because it is not thanks must be given to Colonel Elijah J. Halford, United States army, now retired. He was a prominent newspaperman a generation ago when he became secretary to President Harri*son. Before leaving the White House General Harri*son appointed Halford a captain in the pay corps of the army. He is now vice president of the Philippine society in New York City. Colonel Halford has always been a devout Methodist. In the days of the revolution in the islands he used to spend all his spare time in conducting religious meetings and in otherwise ministering to the spiritual needs of his men.

Colonel Halford foresaw crippled endeavor and bitter dissension among the Protestants unless some definite agreement should be reached in regard to the division of labor. He accordingly suggested and led in the organization of the Evangelical union, of which he was the first president. It was and is composed of all Protestant missions in the islands. It resulted in the allotment to each sect of a certain part of the islands. Thus the Methodists were given most of Luzon; the Presbyterians part of Luzon and part of the Visayan islands; the Baptists the greater portion of the Visayans, while the Episcopal church elected to work solely among the non-Christian tribes, and their missions are among the the Igorot and other head hunting tribes of northern Luzon and the Moros and pagans of Mindanao. Manila is neutral territory, and there the Episcopal, Methodist, Presbyterian and Christian denominations maintain churches for Americans and other white people, and also a number of hospitals and schools. Later the United Brethren and Christian churches deputed religious and medical missionaries in the islands and they were given sections in the Ilocos provinces of northern Luzon.

The Nicholson Bible seminary in Manila is a theological college maintained jointly by the Presbyterians and the Methodists. They have sunk their differences in dogma. Methodist and Presbyterian ministers compose the faculty equally and the Filipino studentes whether Presbyterians or Methodists take identically the same courses, which is marked more by the humanities than by dogmatic theology. The Methodist and United Brethren churches several years ago agreed upon a selection of hymns which they then jointly translated for use among the Ilocomas. Various denominational bodies have also co-operated in other ways.

Filipinos now attending Protestant churches, Sunday schools and schools number about 500,000, with about half that number as full fledged members. None of the Protestant orders strive for a large membership. They require deeds as well as profession of faith on the part of their communicants, and this is emphasized by a probationary period of one or two *years before the convert becomes a full fledged mem*ber of the flock. The Methodists have more members and communicants than any other order. They also seem to be developing Filipino preachers more rapidly than the others. In fact, the Filipino converts now have more native than American pastors, but the latter continue to direct the work.

The leading feature of the Presbyterian work is educational. Its Silliaman institute is the leading Protestant college, and might, in many regards, be considered the leading private institution of learning in the islands. It is training hundreds of Visayans to be well-bred, well-educated and patriotic citizens. The Ellinwood seminary in Manila is another Presbyterian school which is doing more than its share in turning out future Washingtons and Lincolns. The principal assistants of Dr. Rodgers have been Dr. George William Wright, who also is a leader in Manila civic activities; Dr. S. B. Rossiter, now living in retirement in New York City; Rev. Mr. Lamb, Rev. Lewis B. Hilles and Rev. William B. Cooke.

Methodism has forged ahead rapidly in the islands in the last five years, due to the excellent teamwork of Bishop F. Oldhan, Dr. Marvin A. Rader, Rev. Henry Farmer and Rev. A. E. Chenoweth. An important element was contributed by Rev. George A. Miller from 1905-1907 when he was pastor of the English-speaking Central church in Manila. He is now in San Jose, Cal. His successors, Rev. Isaac B. Harper, now of Michigan City, Ind., and Rev. George C. Cobb, now at Dallas, Tex., added their quota to the good work. Dr. B. O. Peterson, H. D. Klinfelter, Oscar Huddleston and E. A. Rayner have been doing yeoman services in the Philippines for a great many years. Mary J. Johnston hospital for maternity cases and the ailments of children, under the direction of Dr. Rebecca Parish and Miss Rose Dudley, is an oasis in the squalid desert om Tondo in the city of Manila. The Harris Memo*rial Training School for Girls* in charge of Miss Margaret Decker and Miss Margaret Crabtree is another very worthy Methodist institution.

The Conning Tower

BY FRANKLIN P. ADAMS.

GREEN FIELDS.

Beyond the town a realm enchanted lies
Where morning deepens into cloudless noon
With whispering winds whose murmured harmonies
Breathe a melodious, half-remembered rune;
There, in the lazy fulness of the day,
Mine eager eyes a thousand times have seen
The first faint vista of those valleys green—
Those fields Elysian, where the gods delay.

Ah, cool remembered haunts of early spring!
Deep-bosomed swales of summer's golden lure!
Where wandering bees, on drowsy-laden wing,
Your myraid blooms their hidden sweets procure;
Oft have I thought to see Prosperina
Standing at gaze above the twilight's rim,
While all around the half-forgotten hymn
Breathes a cool peace upon the odorous lea.

Green as remembered thoughts of youthful hours,
A dreaming splendor fills your wide domain,
Until in fancy the dim city's towers
Sink in a sudden mist of summer rain—
Too real for tears. Oft have I thought to hear,
Borne down the wind, the elfin pipes of Pan,
Ere yet my homeward pilgrimage began—
Green country fields, to lingering youth too dear!

HARRY H. CRAIGIE.

Whoopee! The Wild Town of Marquette, Mich.; Or, As Ithers See Us.

(Frae the Glasgie Hurrald.)

At Marquette, Michigan, Mr. Roosevelt has raised a libel suit against Mr. George Newett, editor of a local trade journal. When he arrived in the town for the opening of the case on Monday, the ex-President received a riotous welcome from the cowboys and ranchers, who orfmed themselves into a guard of honour and escorted him to his hotel. "Bull Moose" favours were to be seen everywhere, and during the day the town was overrun by boisterious cowboys, who galloped their wild horses up and down the streets, regardless of the traffic, and whooped for "Teddy."

Were it not that the Paragraphers' Union, under the Pure Wheeze Act of 1907, declared all references to the theme contraband, we might quote the contiguous sentences from an article on Bologna in Appleton's Cyclopedia: "Bologna is fmous for its Sausages (mortadelle). The pure breed of its celebrated poodledogs has become very scarce."

THE DIARY OF OUR OWN SAMUEL PEPYS.

June 30.—To J. Burgess the dentist's, and his office twenty-nine floors above the street and from the windows are such wondrous sights to be seen I do feel little pain at his devilish machinations. Home early and labouring all the afternoon and thence to an inn up the river with C. Gaige and Mistress Hilda and my wife in Crosby's petrol-waggon, and we had a fine dinner, too, and home early, and to-bed.

July 1.—Up and to my office where all the morning, and Mistress Zoe Beckley gave me a great breaker of butter-milk, and all very kind to me to-day, even Will Ronayne the printer, Heaven bless him. To the station to bid my wife farewell on her journey to Otego, and then I came upon Mistress Inez Milholland the great beauty who whistled to me, and very well, too, and told me she is going this night to England, and she said she would fain send me some items for my gazette, but could think of nought comick all, so I told her anything of interest would do, as, for example, if she should chance to notice what the area of England is, that being somewhat I had never published. So she turned to her companion, an Englishman, and asked him whether he knew what the area of England is, and he said, Yes, 704,000 square miles. Which I dare say is right enough. With John Toohey to Dr. Brill the physician's to dinner and I found the knowingest man I have met in many years, and full of wisdom as well as knowledge, and very pleasant to be with, and I was sorry to go home early, in especiall as I must work, and in the great heat of the room, too.

Line

Button-Before Gown and the Byronic Collar

By Dr. Frank Crane

The mysteries of feminine apparel I in no wise pretend to understand nor presume to criticise. With the Psalmist of Israel I exclaim: "Such things are too wonderful for me; they are high; I cannot attain unto them."

The intolerant conservatism of male attire with its smug unreason overawes me likewise. Thoroughly as I hate it, my hate is but a snarling impotence, for to resist is to become ridiculous, and one can enjoy martyrdom but not ridicule; so that if the penalty were prison and stripes instead of gibes and finger pointings, I would gladly wear a nice white tablecloth and only that these hot days.

But as one whose office it is to animadvert upon the buds and sproutings of the daily news I wish here to indicate two minor happenings in the flux of fashions that have moved joyfully the molecules of my pineal gland, otherwise known as the epiphysis or conarium, which by certain ancient and heathen people was considered to be the seat of the soul.

Firstly: One of the women folks connected with the household where I lodge, or, to be more explicit, friend wife herself, went to the shops the other day and bought a new dress, a blue one, and one in the forefront of the style, one of those contraptions where the waist line has dropped toward the knees, and there is a gentle alarm in the masculine beholder for fear the whole garment will fall off. But it was "some gown," as a slangy friend observed, and the neighbor women were duly envious and compli*mentary.*

The point, however, I wish to make is that when she proceeded to take it off I was astounded to discover that it BUTTONED UP BEFORE, after the manner of Old Grimes, his old gray coat.

"What!" exclaimed I, "Marry come up and 'Shlood! Do you mean to say that this is now the vogue and that there are to be henceforth no more buttonings-up behind? If so, heaven be praised that in the infants of style's vagaries there must once in a while be an approach to reason and comfort!"

Having her mouth full of pins and her mind full of more important matters the lady paid me no heed. Besides, she never argues about clothes; she commands, prohibits, indicates and directs, but does not argue, which program I recommend to all wife-persons.

I have but small space left for my second item, which pertains to man's clothing. It is the appearance of the SOFT SHIRT.

May God send thereto also the SOFT COLLAR.

For why any animal, even a homo sapiens, should wear about his neck an iron-hard circlet, which in summer time becomes moist and viscous inside, and irritates and poisons the neck-skin and torments the soul, that I cannot understand.

I would like to join a movement to restore the Byronic collar, flowing, open and free. How would the joy of the male half of the human race be increased thereby!

Uses for Old Newspapers

(From the Rural New Yorker.)

Old newspapers may not seem like a promising subject on which to base helpful suggestion, but, nevertheless, the papers will prove time and labor savers in so many ways that only a few from the list may be mentioned. A few of them ought together to form a "sheet," and placed just under the upper covering on a bed, will furnish as much warmth as a quilt, and be much lighter. A folded paper slipped between the coat and overcoat, or between coat and vest, across the shoulders and chest, will prove comfortable when driving in cold weather. A couple of thicknesses wrapped around the front of the foot before putting on overshoes will prevent frosted toes in even the severest weather. A piece rumpled up and put in the heel of the rubber or overshoe, under the inside of the sole heel that is worn off or run over, will keep the rubber from crushing at every step and breaking through at the heel before worn at other places.

Spread on the table when working with vegetable, when arranging flowers or even when dressing poultry, they save a lot of cleaning up after the job is done. Spread on the floor when sewing or ripping, they catch the threads that are so hard to sweep from the carpet, and one slipped under the treadle of the freshly oiled sewing machine may save the trouble of cleaning a bad grease spot from the carpet.

One or two spread on the floor near the baking table will catch the bits of flour that often call for a mop when cleaning up after a big job of baking. The papers that are stiched, like magazines, are fine for use on table, or near sink, where kettles and hot dishes are to be placed. When one or two leaves are soiled they can be torn off and clean ones are left, ready for next use.

Every housewife knows that printer's ink is hated by moths and so makes use of newspapers when basketing away woolen clothes and furs and for putting under carpets. Whatever use the papers are put to or however soiled they may be, they are quickly burned and every vestige of litter done away with.

Whistler's Industry

James McNeill Whistler, the artist, was a keen, untiring student and worker. His passion for perfection grew upon him until it became almost a disease. Mr. T. R. Way, in "Memories of James McNeill Whistler," tells how a party once met in his studio by arrangement to go upon some excursion, and how Whistler began upon a full-length portrait of one of the ladies. When some one reminded him of the purpose of the meeting, he was sorry, and exclaimed, "By Jove, it's not before every one that I would paint a picture!"

In painting, Whistler used large brushes with handles three feet long, and was incessantly darting far back to look at his picture from a distance, and then forward to paint again. He had great muscular strength, and could handle these long brushes without a mahlstick.

In 1879 Whistler was in Venice, and very poor. He endured great hardships. In a very cold winter he etched indefatigably outdoors, holding his copperplate, about as cold as ice, in his hand. When his old hat was badly torn, and a friend stitched it up, he ripped it open again, saying, "A darn is premeditated poverty, but a tear is the accident of a moment."

He was never indifferent to criticism. Indeed, he constantly asked those about him how they liked what he was doing, and once called his landlady in to hear what she would say about the Venice plates. The landlady's comment was no more helpful than that of the critics. She asked him when he was going to finish them.

In Old Madrid

A story is being told of a couple of tourists in *Spain who could not speak the language, and, conse*quently, had some difficulty in making known their wants.

One day they came to a wayside inn and tried to obtain some meat—roast beef, for choice. But nobody could understand them.

"What are we to do?" asked one of them despairingly.

"I know," said the other, a ray of hope appearing. "I'll draw a picture of a cow. Then they'll understand."

He made a rough sketch of a cow, put a "5" beneath it, and handed it to the waiter, who instantly smiled to show that he understood, and went off to execute their order.

A few minutes later he returned with two tickets for a local bullfight.—Chicago Journal.

The Child Moses Saved From Death. Ex. 1:8-14, 22—ii:10.

Golden Text—Whoso shall receive one such little child in my name receiveth me. Matt. xviii:5.

(1.) Verse 8—In nations or individuals would you say or not, and why, that the sense of gratitude for favors past, is ever as keen as the sense of gratitude for favors to come?

(2.) Verses 9-10—Was the fear which this new king had grounded upon true reasons, and if so what were they, or was it in his own mind only, and how would you account for it?

(3.) What do history and present day experience say about two or more distinct races forming one prosperous nation or otherwise? (Great Britain, the United States, Canada, South Africa, etc.)

(4.) Verses 11-14—Show how this harshness was bad statecraft and worse morals.

(5.) If Great Britain had treated the American colonies as she now treats Canada and her other colonies, would there have been any Revolutionary war in America?

(6.) Suppose this Pharaoh had continued to treat the Israelites with generosity, as his predecessor had done, what effect would this have probably had upon them in the matter of loyalty to Egypt? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(7.) What national rebellion can you recall where the laws and the administration of them have been just and equal?

(8.) By which method, generosity or oppression can employers of labor get the most of their employes? Give your reasons.

(9.) On what law or theory do you account for the fact that the more the Israelites were oppressed the faster they multiplied and grew?

(10.) Verse 22—What had Pharaoh commanded the midwives to do at the birth of every Israelitish boy, and how did they obey?

(11.) When Pharaoh could not get the midwives to murder all the baby boys what command did he then give (12.) Chapter ii: 14—Who were the parents of Moses?

(13.) Would you say or not, and why, this this man and women of the tribe of Levi were brought together in marriage by God in order that Moses might be born?

(14.) Would you say or not, and why, that "all true marriages are made in heaven?"

(15.) Give your reason for your opinion whether God selected Moses to be the deliverer of the Israelites before or after his birth.

(16.) In what manner did they continue to hide the babe for three months, and why did they not try to continue to hide him?

(17.) Did the mother of Moses in selecting this method of putting him in the ark by the river plan the experiment to bring about what actually happened? Why

(18.) Verses 5-6—Would you say, and why, that Pharaoh's daughter's sympathy for the child was purely natural or that she was directly influenced by God? What makes the latter theory probable?

(19.) Verses 7-10—What was the name of this sister, who acted her part so skillfully, and why would you say or not that she was directed by God?

(20.) Is it an actual fact or not that all the details of every good man's life are guided by God? Why?

THE GOSPEL OF LABOR

A Little Sermon for men who work.

By Rev. Loy Warwick

Work With Your Hands. I Thess. 4-11.

EVEN in this hot weather let us pity the folks who have nothing to do. I am writing now about the great army of the unemployed. There are people who would work, but they can get nothing to do.

There is a great demand for workers.

Great things are being enterprised in our land. It seems that there should be employment for all who are willing to toil. Nevertheless, there are honest and industrious men and boys who beg for a chance to work.

Let us nope that this will all be changed some day. There is sure somewhat out of joint when men beg for work and for bread in an age like ours. The dullest can see that something is wrong. The fault—whose is it? It is not all with the working people, nor is it all to be placed at the doors of the rich and the government. A great many factors enter into the making of these conditions.

Violence and bloodshed cannot be condoned. It is better for men to suffer great wrongs than for them to join hands with the anarchist and the men who would overthrow the social order. Destruction is not reformation.

But there is a reason for all this unrest and poverty and lack of opportunity for the industrious man who asks only for the chance to earn his bread.

The men who order strikes and use violence have a grievance. Their wrongs are real and not farcical ones. Because this is a free country it does not follow that I have a right to every farm or factory in the world while my brother-man begs for work, or a piece of bread. It does not help matters to say that I made what I have honestly, and that the poor man suffers because he is a poor manager. It is my duty to help him in the best and wisest way. I should help him to help himself. I should labor to bring about a change in the conditions that produce poverty and suffering.

We, then, that are strong ought to bear the infirmities of the weak.

I am not wise enough to discuss the tariff or the money question. I confess that I know but little about such things. But somehow I believe that the present administration is going to distinguish itself by doing something really great and worth while.

I have the utmost confidence in President Wilson and the other leaders in congress. I am anxious to see the administration measures put through and the leaves set at work.

But let us not be deceived. Tariff reform and money legislation will not cure all our aches and ills.

We could do much to reduce the cost of living if congress did nothing and if the very rich should keep all they have and get more.

The spendthrift spirit is in the air. It is not just the ultra rich who spend too much. The poor must have their luxuries. And the trouble and tragedy is that we spend so much for that which is not bread, and we toil for that which does not satisfy.

The moving picture theater, the candy and tobacco stores, the beer shops, seem prosperous.

"It is not so much the high cost of living as it is the cost of high living." A thousand ways the people who toil could help themselves if they would but take the matter in hand.

The Lord helps people who cannot help themselves, but He cannot do much for such as will not help themselves.

What can people expect, what can they ask of the Carpenter's Son when they break His laws and violate His commands and do despite to His Holy Spirit?

Not only should people work six days in the week, but they should remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy. And they should honor the Lord with the fruit of their labor, be it much or little.

"Is not this the Carpenter?"

"My Father worked hitherto and I work."

The greatest apostle of the great Lord was a tent-maker and dwelt in his own hired house.

Let us not forget that in helping the laboring man we are helping one the King delights to honor. This thought has been expressed eloquently in a poem by Dr. Henry Van Dyke:

But I think the King of that country comes out from his tireless host,
And walks in this world of the weary,
as if he loved it the most;
And here in the dusty confusion, with eyes that are heavy and dim,
He meets again the laboring men who are looking and longing for him.

He cancels the curse of Eden, and brings them a blessing instead:
Blessed are they that labor, for Jesus
partakes of their bread.
He puts his hand to their burdens, he enters their homes at night:
Who does his best shall have as guest
the Master of life and of light.

And courage will come with his presence, and patience return at his touch,
And manifold sins be forgiven to those who love him much;
And the cries of envy and anger will change to the songs of cheer,
For the toiling age will forget its rage
when the Prince of Peace draws near.

This is the gospel of labor—ring it, ye bells of the kirk—
The Lord of Love came down from above to live with the men who work.
This is the rose that he planted here in the thorn-cursed soil—
Heaven is blest with perfect rest, but the blessing of earth is toil.

This will be followed with a short sermon by the pastor, Rev. C. V. Weathers, on "Child Life." The monthly communion service will close the exercises. All of which will not last more than an hour and a half. The song service, led by W. T. Johnson, will precede the exercises.

RIVER CAR ROUTE MAY BE CHANGED

The Georgia Railway and Power company proposes to change the routing of the River cars by bringing them into Walton street, where it intersects with Marietta, then turning into Forsyth street and back into Marietta street at the city hall for the outbound run.

W. H. Glenn, vice president of the company, laid the plan before the street committee of council Friday afternoon and asked for permission to lay the necessary tracks.

Believing that the new route will tend to relieve the congestion at Broad and Marietta streets, where the River cars now run one way, and reverse, the street committee voted to recommend to council that the permission be granted.

$150,000 FOR THE DISCOVERY OF HOW TO USE A VEGETABLE

The discovery of how to use a vegetable in the right way has made for a young European singer a fortune. The singer, who had suffered for years with severe indigestion, made the recipe to contain the vegetable, which has been mentioned to him by a celebrated French doctor as a marvelous digestive. The great cooks of Europe have pronounced Waw-Waw unequalled and the success of this sauce has been phenomenal. Add a little Waw-Waw to the cooking and in the soups, salads, with hot and cold meats and fish and notice how easily you digest your food.

HARRY KNIGHT SPEEDS TO DEATH AT COLUMBUS

Killed in Auto Race

Two Atlantians Victims of Racing Accident When Fast Car Turns Over

Harry C. Knight, Atlanta boy, who is known as the "Hero of the Indianapolis Speedway," met instant death on the one hundred and tenth lap of a 200-mile auto race at the track of the Columbus (Ohio) Automobile association Friday afternoon, and his mechanician, Milton McCallis, of Atlanta, also was killed.

Knight's front wheel drive car blew a right tire and turned over twice. At the first turn McCallis was hurled out upon his head, suffering a fractured skull. Knight was pinned under the steering wheel, but fell out before the revolving car finally stopped.

On the heels of the wrecked machine was Johnny Jenkins, of Springeld, O., said by Atlanta relatives of the dead driver to have been his best friend. The report of the tragedy says that Jenkins, running at a terrific rate of speed, was unable to avoid passing over the body of his friend. Ralph de Palma, following close on Jenkins, escaped collision with the motorist by a hair's breadth.

The wreck occurred directly in front of the grandstand, and was in plain view of thousands of spectators. By the time assistance reached Knight he was dead. McCallis was taken to a Columbus hospital, where he died several hours later.

HAD PROMISED TO QUIT.

Knight was in Atlanta hardly a week ago. He was in partnership with his brother, Forrest Knight, who conducts an automobile rent business on Cain street. When Harry Knight was here last week he was trying to persuade several friends to go with him to Dublin, Ga., for some races there.

They were to be his last. His brother, who left for Columbus Saturday morning, said that Harry had decided to quit the game on account of his mother, who had always been opposed to her son's racing. He decided to make the Columbus race his last one, and it was.

The career of Knight ever has been fraught with narrow escapes and dangerous experiences. Although but twenty-three years old, he was regarded as one of the most daring drivers in the world. He had been in the racing game since his seventeenth year.

GAINED TITLE OF HERO.

He gained the title of the "Hero of the Indianapolis Speedway" last May. Knight entered the 500-mile race at the Indiana city with the promise that if he won the race he would win the girl of his heart. He sacrificed his love and dared the jaws of death by crashing his machine into a concrete wall when the race was half-way over to avoid running over a driver who had been thrown from his car to the track. He never married.

The race track on which Knight lost his life was the scene of another accident, the most thrilling of his career. That was two years ago, when Harry plunged through the fence on the side of the track, swung his car back through the fence and crossed the line winner of the speedway cup.

Forrest Knight had worked with his brother in nearly all the races. He was present at the victory two years ago and was at Indianapolis when Harry split the concrete wall. For the first time since Harry had been in the racing game his brother decided not to accompany him to Columbus.

Knight's mother, who, with Forrest, alone survives him, lives at Jonesboro, Ind., near Marion. The two boys first became known in Atlanta when they raced at the local speedway. Harry later formed a connection with the Cole Motor company until he and his brother entered business for themselves. Mc-Callis, Harry's mechanician, who died with him, came here last December with Harry. He was nineteen years of age.

MANAGER OF A. D. T. MAKES A CORRECTION

M. P. Reeves, manager of the American District Telegraph company, desires to make a correction in the account of the injury of Night Watchman J. T. Harwell, of the old Ward-Truitt building, which appeared in The Journal Friday afternoon.

Mr. Reeves states that it was not two and one-half hours after Harwell's signal was due before an inspector was sent from the A. D. T. office to investigate, but only fifteen minutes. He says Harwell's signal was due at 6:15, that when it had not come at 6:30 an inspector hurried to the building, and that Harwell was on his way to the hospital by 6:45.

The watchman, who is sixty-five years old, Thursday afternoon accidentally stepped through a trap door and broke a leg and a shoulder blade. He was unconscious when found.

REAL ESTATE DEALER AND MINE MAN FIGHT

W. F. Wesley, a real estate dealer with offices in the Empire building, had an altercation with Y. A. Gresham, a mining operator living at 46 West North avenue, this morning, at 8:30 o'clock. Blows had been exchanged between the two a fight ensued. Both men were served with copis of charges sworn out before Judge Broyles Monday morning at 8:30 and answer the charge of disorderly conduct.

Mr. Wesley couldn't be located by telephone this afternoon, but Mr. Gresham gave this version of the affair.

He was coming out of the entrance of the Empire building when Mr. Wesley met him and struck him in the face, he says. Mr. Gresham says they clinched then, and Wesley fell under an automobile, Gresham on top of him.

No damage was done either way, Mr. Gresham said. The row grew out of a business disagreement, he said.

Little Stories For Bedtime

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

(Copyright, 1913, by J. G. Lloyd.)

The bold visit of old Granny Fox to Bowser the Hound in Farmer Brown's dooryard right in broad daylight was all a part of a clever plan Granny had worked out to make trouble for Old Man Coyote. First she had sent Reddy Fox to make sure that Mr. Wolf was takinh his usual sun nap in his usual place. If he was, Reddy was to softly steal away and then hurry to the top of the Crooked Little Path where it comes down the hill. When he got there he was to bark three times. Granny was to be hidden behind the old stone wall on the side of Farmer Brown's orchard, and when she heard Reddy bark she was to do her part, while Reddy was to hide in a secret place on the edge of the Green Forest and watch what would happen.

It all turned out just as Granny had planned. She had been in hiding behind th old stone wall only a few minutes when she heard Reddy bark three times. Granny grinned. Then she stole over to Farmer Brown's doorway, and there she found Bowser the Hound fast asleep and dreaming. Granny sat down in front of him at a safe ditsance and laughed, for she knew by Bowser's little veins and eager whines that he was dreaming. She was just getting ready to bark to waken him when he waked himself with his own voice. Granny had to work harder than ever when she saw how Bowser didn't know whether he was awake or asleep.

It was just then that a hen happened to walk around the corner of the house. Granny's eyes sparkled.

"Good," said she to herself. "I'll take this hen along with me, and Reddy and I will have a good dinner after I have set Bowser to chasing Old Man Coyote." for that was what Granny was planning to do. So she caught the hen, threw it over her shoulder and started off with Bowser the Hound after her, making a great noise with his big voice.

Now, of course, Granny knew that she couldn't carry that hen very far and keep ahead of Bowser, so she ran straight across the old orchard toward the secret place on the edge of the Green Forest where she knew that Reddy Fox was hiding. When she was sure that Reddy could see her she gave the hen a toss over into the grass and then raced away toward the Green Meadows. You see, she knew that Bowser would keep right on after her, and when it was safe for him to do so, Reddy would steal out from his hiding place and get the hen, and that is just what did happen.

Away ran Granny, and after her ran Bowser, and all the little meadow and forest people heard his great voice and were glad that he was not after them. But Granny Fox was not worried. You see, she had fooled him so many times that she knew she could do it again. So she kept just a little ways ahead of him and gradually led him toward the place where old Man Coyote took his sun nap every day. But she was too smart to run straight toward it.

"Por," said she to herself, "if I do that he will become alarmed and run away before Bowser is near enough to see him." So she ran in a big circle around the place, feeling sure that Old Man Coyote would lie perfectly still so as not to be seen.

Round and round ran Granny Fox, with Bowser after her, and all the time she was making the circle smaller and smaller, so as to get nearer and nearer to the napping place of Mr. Wolf. When she thought that she was near enough she suddenly started straight for it.

"Now," thought she, "he'll jump and run, and when Bowser sees him he will forget all about me. He will follow Old Man Coyote, and then he will drive him away from the Green Meadows forever."

Nearer and nearer to the napping place Granny drew. She was almost to it. Why didn't Old Man Coyote jump and run? At last she was right to it. She could see just where he had been stretched out, but he wasn't there now. There wasn't a sign of him anywhere! What did it mean? Just then she heard a sound over in the Green Forest that made her grind her teeth with rage. Ha, ha, ha! Ho, ho, ho! Hee, hee, hee! Ha, ho, hee, ho!" It was the laughter of Old Man Coyote.

Hotel Marriage Is Climax of Romance In Lady Orchestra

A romance which began two years ago in southern California, came to a happy climax Friday night in the Hotel Ansley when Miss Julia Genevieve Lutz, of Irvington, Cal., became the bride of Frank O. Runner, manager of the Chicago Ladies' Orchestra, of which Miss Lutz is a member. It was Cupid's first invasion of the new Ansley hotel.

Only a few weeks ago Miss Lutz joined the orchestra and the affection which followed when she met Mr. Runner in California two years ago ripened into love.

Thursday she consented to become his wife and a telegram was sent to her parents in Irvington, telling of the mutual affection and incidentally seeking the parental blessing. Came in the nature of hearty congratulations to both. S. Russell Bridges, manager of the Altahest hyeotel, was the only one let in on the secret. The minister was obtained and Mr. Bridges then invited the members of the orchestra to a little dinner at the Ansley Friday night. As the party reached the mezzanine floor on their way to the private dining room Mr. Runner asked them to stop for a moment. At a prearranged signal, the hotel 'orchestra burst into the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march. Simultaneously with the first notes of the melody, Miss Lutz stepped forward and took her place beside Mr. Runner.

The Rev. S. R. Belk, pastor of the Park Street Methodist church, performed the ceremony.

The wedding party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Runner, Mr. Bridges, Mr. and Mrs. Jordan, of Boston; Miss Mary P. Washburn, Miss Lutz, Miss Frances Cramer, Miss Katherine Fleshaugh, Miss Florence Cary and Miss Elizabeth Parks.

CITIZENS OF GILMER PLAN GREAT HIGHWAY

Enthusiastic Meeting Held at Ellijay to Discuss Chicago-Jacksonville Highway

Where forty years ago the citizens of Gilmer county gathered to hear Ben Hill urge them to build a railroad from north Georgia to Atlanta they assembled again on Friday to listen to speakers urge them to build a good roads highway from Marietta to Murphy, N. C., which will connect with other highways to form a continuous chain of good roads from Chicago to Jacksonville.

The rally held at Ellijay, Ga., and was preceded by a monster barbecue spread at the Old Pumm spring. It was attended by the citizens of four counties who are interested directly in the construction of the road, and by members of the Murphy board of trade, the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations of various southern towns.

Dr. E. W. Watkins, of Ellijay, made the first address, and was followed by C. J. Haden, of Atlanta, the representative of the local chamber. Other Speeches were made by Prof. Harwood, Dr. Floyd M. Young, Colonel Adams, Col. R. E. A. Hamby and Prof. Henderson.

The speakers' enthusiasm on the subject of good roads was equaled only by the enthusiasm of the audience. Plans were discussed pro and con, but mostly pro. Popular subscriptions will be the means of starting the new highway, and steps will be taken at once to raise the necessary sum.

RURAL LETTER CARRIERS REBUKE PAUL LINDSEY

George M. Gammage, of Brownwood, Made President—Convention Comes to Close

Members of the Georgia Rural Letter Carriers association in the closing session in the assembly hall of the New Kimball, Saturday morning, stamped with unanimous disapproval the reopening on an old enmity between Paul L. Lindsay, of Atlanta, former president of the national association and W. D. Brown, editor of the Rural Free Delivery News, of Washington, D. C., when the former made reference to the matter in an address before the convention.

The remarks of Mr. Lindsay followed a speech by Mr. Brown, who made no reference to the incident of nearly two years standing, but talked to the carriers of the value of the organization and told them of the good that was being accomplished by the association all over the country.

What threatened to become a matter of serious personalities between the two men when Mr. Lindsay launched upon his attack on the editor, was quickly stopped by the convention when ordered that all personalities be left out of the address. Mr. Brown at this juncture arose and stated that he was ready at any time to make the proper apologies, if it were known that the statements in an editorial in his paper were at fault. Immediate order was restored and the convention allowed to proceed with its business.

At the opening of the second day's session Governor John M. Slaton made a short address to the carriers. He commended them for their work and for the efforts they have made for better roads in the rural districts, at the same time welcoming them to the capital of the state. He spoke of the successful growth of the association and expressed the hope that each succeeding year would find it upon a more firm basis of organization.

What is considered a most important accomplishment of the convention is the amendment to the constitution providing for an insurance fund for the families of members who die. The resolution, which was introduced by Fred L. White, of Buckhead, provides for an assessment of fifty cents from each member upon the death of a member in good standing.

The following officers were unanimously chosen for the ensuing year: George M. Gammage, of Brownwood president; W. H. Astin, of Palmetto, vice president, and W. A. Cowan, of Rome, secretary and treasurer.

GEORGIA AND HER POLITICS

Governor Slaton Is Presented With Ring by Former Partner

Visitors to the executive offices are remarking a most beautiful ring which adorns the right finger of Governor Slaton's right hand. This ring was a present to the governor from Ben Z. Phillips, his law partner of twenty-five years, when the governor severed active connection with the law firm a few days ago to take up his duties as chief executive of the state.

Carved into the top of the heavy gold ring is a replica of the Georgia state seal and underside is carved, "B. Z. P. to J. M. S. 1894-1913," the dates indicating the years when the law partnership between the governor and Mr. Phillips began and ended. The ring is not only a handsome piece of jewelry but it is prized chiefly by Governor Slaton because *it is a token of the af*fection and esteem in which he is held by his friend and former partner.

State Committee Sends Out Ballots For Senatorial Election, July 15.

Secretary A. H. Ulm, of the state democratic executive committee, is sending out ballots to be used in the senatorial election on July 15. These ballots carry but one name, that of Senator A. O. Bacon, the Democratic nominee, and it is not believed that any other will be employed in the election.

A plentiful supply of the ballots is being sent to the ordinaries in the various counties with the request that they distribute them at the various voting precincts.

A Compulsory Education Law Likely To Be Passed by General Assembly.

Advocates of a compulsory education law for Georgia and they are numerous, are encouraged at the prospects of such a law being enacted at the present session of the legislature. A bill of this kind has been introduced in the house by Representative H. J. Fullbright, of Burke, and another has been introduced in the senate by Senator J. L. Sweat, of the Fifth district.

It is believed that the best features of each bill will be incorporated into the law which the house and senate committees will recommend. Senator Sweat's bill has the approval of the state department of education and is said to be so framed as to eliminate those objections which have been strenously urged against previous bills of this character.

Recently both Tennessee and North Carolina have adopted strict compulsory laws, leaving but six states in the Union—South Carolina, Georgia, Florida Alabama Mississippi and Texas—without such legislation.

As will be noted these are all southern states and they have been slow to pass compulsory education laws because of the negro problem. This problem is believed to have been solved in the Sweat bill.

Governor Slaton Finds a Slump in Executive Patronage

Perhaps no governor of Georgia ever had less patronage at his disposal upon the beginning of his term than has Governor Slaton. It so happens that there are less than 60 appointments to be made by the governor during the next two years, whereas when Governor Brown assumed office four years ago he had about 175 appointments to make within the first two months of his term.

The law requires that all clerks of judges and solicitors of city and county courts expiring between sessions of the legislature *must be filled while the leg*islature is in session previous to their expiration.

Only about 30 or 40 of these places must be filled now by Governor Slaton as against about 75 when Governor Brown began his first term. There are several reasons for this state of affairs. The terms of the various court officials run from two to four years, many of the courts have been abol-

SERMONS FOR CONVICTS TO LAST BUT ONE HOUR

Marion Jackson and John J. Eagan Opposed Capt. Donaldson Before County Board

A lively tilt between Marion M. Jackson and John J. Eagan, leaders of the Men and Religion Forward movement and the Prison Reform association on one side, and Captain T. J. Donaldson, superintendent of the county convict camps, on the other, featured a meeting of the public works committee of the county commission Saturday.

Religious services at the county camps on Sunday have been limited to one hour daily, and Captain Donaldson has won one point.

However, the number of religious workers who are to visit the camps on Sundays has not been definitely fixed and thereby the prison association has also scored one point.

The members of the committee present, Shelby Smith and W. T. Winn, decided that services can be held at the camps between the hours of 10 and 12 o'clock on Sunday mornings and between 3 and 5 o'clock in the afternoons, but the services must be limited to one hour.

CONVICTS HEAR MANY SERMONS.

At a previous meeting Captain Donaldson had remarked that a minister talking two hours undid by the length of the service any good he might have accomplished at the start. In addition he says that because of a lack of system and the numbers of religious workers who visit the camps, that the convicts have practically no rest on Sunday, but must be listening to sermons nearly all the day.

It has been agreed that religious workers are to be admitted to the camps if they bear a card signed by the secretary of the prison association, O. K'ed by Captain Donaldson.

Captain Donaldson, for the reason that his guards do not know the religious wor...rs who come to hold services at the camp, and because they often come in crowds, he says, asked that the number of workers permitted to visit the camps be limited, and that some regular system that would make him certain that no improper person was getting into a camp under the guise of a religious worker, be inaugurated.

JACKSON KNOWS WANTS.

"We want no controversy with you gentlemen," Mr. Jackson told the committee and Captain Donaldson, "but we know what the people of the county want in respect to the convict camps, and we are going to do our best to see that they get it."

The rather significant statement passed without comment from the members of the board and it was agreed by the committee that religious workers be admitted to the camp in the manner described.

It is said that Captain Donaldson probably will take up the matter with the prison commission to secure limitations to the number of religious workers admitted to the camps.

SAVANNAHIAN ARRESTED ON FORGERIES CHARGE

E. C. Hartman Caught in New Orleans After Chase Half Across Continent

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 5.—Information has been received in Savannah of the arrest at New Orleans yesterday of E. C. Hartman, a former Savannahian, on a charge of forgery.

Hartman came here about a year ago and interested several Savannah business men in a deal that fell on foot. Later he left, and since then it has been trailed almost half way across the continent by the number of forged checks which have appeared in Savannah bearing the names of local business men. These checks, it is alleged, were for sums ranging from $200 to $500 and were passed by Hartman.

It is not thought the man will be brought here for trial. He may be tried in New Orleans. He is alleged to have uttered forgeries in Birmingham, Wichita Falls, Tex., and other Texas towns, as well as New Orleans.

NO CLEW TO IDENTITY OF RAILROAD BANDITS

(By Associated Press.)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 5.—Posses in charge of railroad special agents and detectives searching for bandits have been found as to the identity of the two bandits who held up and robbed Illinois Central south bound passenger train No. 1 early yesterday.

The Tallahatchie river bottoms in the vicinity of Batesville, Miss., the scene of the holdup, are almost impenetrable in places, and it is the belief of officers in charge of the hunt that the robbers still are concealed in the dense woods.

Gold Is a Cheap Metal

Gold is generally looked on as the last word in costliness, but, as a matter of fact, there are more metals dearer than gold than there are cheaper. The number of known metals is about seventy.

Iridium, for instance, of which a big find was made the other day in Austria, is three times as expensive as gold.

Osmium is another metal much dearer than gold. It costs about $48 an ounce. It is by far the heaviest of all known substances, being more than twenty-two times as heavy as water. This metal has the peculiar property of being able to stand without melting the most intense heat known.

Palladium—about $40 an ounce—is just the opposite. It is quite easy to melt, palladium vanish in steam. Being of a white, silvery color, and untarnishable, it is used for the division marks on scales and delicate scientific instruments.

THE SPORTLIGHT
BY GRANTLAND RICE

THE WHITE HOPE'S REJOINDER.

They say I stall and frame 'em, and they counter with a hiss,
They jeer me in the clinches and they cross me with a hoot;
They pan me to a creamy froth, but kindly tell me this:
How can a bloke count up the house and get his man to boot?

Each time I draw an opening and and start one for his bun
I pipe another bunch of kale, and so I have to wait;
I like to tap a bloke's gobboon as well as any one,
But that ain't like the thrill that comes from adding up the gate.

They tell you that I threw 'em down—they say I framed and stalled—
They say I double-cross the game and make a play with it;
It makes a lot of difference, I guess, what I am called
As long as I can nip the kale and get away with it.

Which is the ultimate answer to Whitehopery. The knock shouldn't be for them. Most of us would also be in there collecting the easy stuff if there were enough folks to fall for it and let us ease by.

THE UPSET.

Business of pulling up with a jolt. They have found one game across the foamy Atlantic where we are still shy of 1—2—3.

The four picked American golfers not only absorbed "theirs" in England, but were dismantled even worse in France. The fact that England and France have found a widespread game where we are lagging is another answer to the song which Mr. Cawthorne emits with so much eclat, the chorus being "You can't play every instrument in the band."

America has drawn a fairly good sweep and it is just as well that one of the entries was snagged. Too much victory isn't always good for the property humility of spirit. Being thumped once in a while is a great little medicine for every one—one of the best upon the current market.

WHY THE MACKMEN ARE UP THERE.

When Mack's team isn't batting, his pitchers are out there pitching. When his pitching goes shy the club starts hitting. The general combination producing a count by the margain of 2 to 1 or 10 to 9. The knack of scoring from 1 to 3 more runs than the other coves is said by many authorities to be the best system extant. It rarely ever fails when prolonged indefinitely. Second division managers can consider this an inside tip and play it to the limit. We indorse it thoroughly.

The trouble with the Yanks is that in playing this system they are using it backwards. They fall down at bat when their pitchers are working and they fall down in pitching when their bats are loaded. Nothing could be simpler. And yet some people wonder why this club or that club isn't up in the race.

They manage to jam those Braves of Stallings's down for a week or two, but they always keep coming back. Which is the main difference between the old Brave regime and the new. Up to 1913 it was only necessary to give them one push and the law of gravity did the rest. One good kick about the third day out found them on the way to the cellar like a steel girder dropped from a skyscraper. Under Stallings they refuse to to be anchored and the time is coming when the Braves will have a club in the field ready to furnish trouble to them all.

There were several worthy alibis to be offered for the Pirate slump up to June. But when a slump carries from April to July it is no longer a slump, but a habit.

Over in Philadelphia they could hit John McGraw, but they couldn't hit Matty or Marquard. And these happened to be the ones figuring more extensively in the box scores.

WHY, INDEED?

Sir—I've seen a number of replies from you in regard to different questions. Here's another query. I'm in need of some ready money. How can I get it, and where?—P. D. S.

Why ask a consumptive how to cure a cold?

The alibi is nothing if not elastic. Early in the spring it was cold weather. Now it's hot weather that causes the smear among the losers. What is the proper and exact temperature which lies beyond the borders of the reason why? Or is it a myth?

This is the first year in his managerial career that Frank Chance failed to enter July with at least a fighting show for the top. What's the answer? Palpably puerile. This is the first time in his career that Frank Chance ever managed the New York Yanks.

Valdosta Is Loser In Comedy Game

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

VALDOSTA, Ga., July 5.—With a crowd overflowing into the field Valdosta lost to Thomasville, 5 to 1. It was a game of hard hitting and very poor fielding. The playing of the local teams was the poorest of the season.

Two players umpired in the absence of Umpire Derrick. General dissatisfaction resulted.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Valdosta ..... 000 000 010—1 9 5
Thomasville ..... 011 001 20x—5 7 2

Batteries—Zellars and Vanlaningham, Sir and Dudley. Umpires, Roth, Gentle.

East Point Wins

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ROCHELLE, Ga., July 5.—In the fastest game of the season on the local diamonds East Point won from Rochelle by a score of 4 to 1. In the fourth inning the locals bunched three hits, two doubles by McCarvey and Mixon and a single by Nicholson and scored their only run. The feature of the game was a running shoestring catch by Tippens in right field.

Score by innings: R.
East Point ..... 000 202 0— 4
Rochelle ..... 000 100 0— 1

Batteries: Winn and Wise; Stubbs and McCarvey. Hits, East Point 5, Rochelle 4; struck out, by Stubbs 8, by Winn 3; errors, East Point 4, Rochelle 3. Game called in seventh inning on account of darkness. Umpire, Nicholson.

Darkness Ends Tie; Good Crowd on Hand

LAGRANGE, Ga., July 5.—The game between Newnan and LaGrange was called on account of darkness in the sixth. The score was 1 to 1. The game was of much interest to the crowds that attended.

In the first inning Nelson, of LaGrange, was hit by Lovett and was retired to the bench, being unable to participate further in the game. Bannister took Nelson's place. Both pitchers were in good condition and a lengthy battle would have been on hand had not the darkness interferred. A regular Fourth of July crowd was in attendance and was estimated around about 2,000.

The game was delayed owing to the late arrival of the Newnan club. Time of game one hour and forty-five minutes. Umpire, Poole.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
LaGrange ..... 100 000—1 4 1
Newnan ..... 010 000—1 7 1

Batteries—Newnan, Lovett, Rice; LaGrange, Head, Billingsley.

Reidsville Wins

REIDSVILLE, Ga., July 5.—The Reidsville baseball team defeated the Glennville baseball team on the latter's diamond by a score of 9 to 5. The game was an interesting one from start to finish, the score being tied up, 5 to 5, up until the ninth inning, when Reidsville took a lead of four scores. Reidsville is proud of the record her boys has made this season. They have played seven games, and have won four out of the seven and tied one of the others.

Chicago Club Wins Tourney

CHICAGO, July 5.—Chicago Athletic association athletes ran away with point honors i nthe National Junior A. A. U. meet at Grant park Friday. The well-balanced team captured first place in seven of the eighteen events, taking 42 points. Captain A. W. Kohler, of Michigan, was individual star, taking all the eeven points his school got. Lund, of the Irish-American Athletic club, New York, broke the only record of the day, throwing the javelin 148 feet 8 inches, a new junior mark.

A feature of the day was the victory of James Ray, of the Illinois Athletic club, over Strobino, an Olympic point winner in the five-mile run. Ray lay back until nearly the last lap when he shot ahead and finished thirty yards in front of Strobino, who set the race practically all the way. The time was 26:39.

Ritchie, of the Birmingham A. C. made a gallant fight against Cahill, of the Irish-American A. C., in the 56-pound weight throw, but Cahill's superiority in weight and experience made him winner at 31 feet 7 inches. Ludlam, New Orleans Gymnastic club, was third in this contest. In the hammer throw he was third, Walsh, Irish-American A. C., winning at 138 feet 2 inches. Upton, also of the New Orleans club, was second in the 220-yard dash, won by Howe, North Dorchester, Mass., in :23 2-5. Ritchie, Birmingham, in the discus throw, was third, Kohler, Michigan winning at 129 feet 3 inches.

New York baseball scribes love to prattle of Midkiff, the Yankee third sacker. The fact of the matter is that this youngster is a very ordinary fielder and is hitting to date about .227. Outside of that he's a great ball player!

Cross Slipped In Right Punch

(By Associated Press.)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 5.—With a right swing to the jaw, Leach Cross, the New York lightweight, knocked out "Bud" Anderson, of Oregon, Friday in the twelfth round of what was to have been a 20-round battle at Vernon Arena. The blow landed with terrific force and Anderson was unconscious for more than four minutes.

The Oregon boy had been a favorite at odds as high as 2 to 1. When he went down he struck with a thud and his inertness as he lay in the ring silenced the usual plaudits for the winner. The crowd feared he was dead. Cross, instead of retiring from the ring, bent anxiously over his prostrate adversary and when Anderson finally rallied the vanquished pugilist was helped to his corner by the victor. Anderson was so weak that he was carried to his dressing room.

Cross had the better of the fight all the way. In the second round he sent the Oregon boxer sprawling upon his back. In the succeeding rounds the New Yorker punished Anderson severely while avoiding nearly every blow the Oregon boy aimed at him.

Anderson's face and body were pounded unmercifully, and in the fourth round a short jab delivered by the dentist further relieved him of a tooth.

BALLOONS ARE INJURED AND CAN'T MAKE FLIGHT

Protests Were Entered Against Two for Taking on Gas After Hours

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 5.—Four of the eight giant racing balloons scheduled to start in the national race to choose America's representatives for the James Gordon Bennett trophy contest in France this fall are in the air today. They are "The Kansas City II," Kansas City; "Million Population Club," St. Louis, the "Goodyear," Akron, O., and the "Kansas City Post."

Against the Kansas City Post and the Kansas City II, Robert E. Nolker, president of the, St. Louis Aero club, and R. E. Greene, of the Aero Club of Illinois, telegraphed protests to the contest committee of the Aero Club of America, saying that these balloons were "taking gas after legitimate time."

Mr. Nolker and Mr. Greene declare they have witnesses to substantiate their charges. A rule was adopted by the Aero club and officials providing that after the first balloon left the ground gas should be shut off from the other balloons.

Pilot Honeywell, of the Kansas City Post, apprised of the intended protest before he arose, denied the charge, as did Pilot Watts, of the Kansas City II.

It was a disastrous day for ballooning. Two of the great bags were destroyed by a stiff wind that swept the field, a third withdrew at the last moment on account of a defective valve, and the "Overland," with Roy Donaldson and F. Lanning, of Springfield, Ill., aboard, was forced to land a few miles from the starting point. A thirty-mile wind delayed the start by two hours.

The balloon Miss Sophia II, which was to have flown the colors of the Missouri Athletic club, had a valve torn out by the wind. William Assman, who was to have piloted the bag, was in tears when he discovered the extent of the injury. Assman had a similar experience last year. When he found he could not start he took his pocket knife and cut his $1,800 balloon to pieces.

"The Drifter," piloted by Albert Holz, Cincinnati, was eliminated when Mr. Holz found a defective valve a few minutes before the start.

The bag of the balloon Lucerne, in which Dr. L. E. Custer, of Dayton, O., was to have ascended, collapsed while being filled with gas, and Custer was unable to make the trip. The Lucerne was not entered in the race.

Donaldson, in the Overland, had gone aloft but 200 feet when he discovered the appendix valve was damaged. He pulled the rip cord and descended in a corn field. Neither the occupants of the balloon nor the bag itself was injured.

All the balloons took a northeast direction.

Whitney Wins Over Thomas

NEW ORLEANS, July 5.—Frank Whitney easily outpointed Joe Thomas in his ten-round bout here on the Fourth. The referee's decision received the approval of the entire crowd present.

Both Whitney and Thomas have fought in Atlanta, and the former is a great favorite with the local fans.

Willard Wins Easily

RENO, Nev., July 5.—Jess Willard, of Kansas, won an easy victory in his fight with Al Williams. The fight was stopped in the eighth round, when it was apparent that Williams was unable to continue. Williams took a severe beating and plainly was no match for his taller and stronger opponent. Williams was bleeding from mouth and nose and his eyes were almost closed when the referee raised Willard's hand and stopped the bout.

Balke Wins Race

ELGIN, Ill., July 5.—Charles Balke won the 250-mile international motorcycle road race of the Chicago Motorcycle club over the automobile speedway here with an average speed of 55.4 miles an hour.

Erwin H. Banter finished a close second, with Charles Gustafson third. Two riders fell, but were not seriously injured.

"Hey, kid, this gent wants his lid and his lumber. Go over to the cattree and shake off the fruit until you come across a gasstove toque and a yellow swaggermast. Don't worry, Mister. The kid'll fetch your freak kelly and your groper."

How often have you heard it said:

But marriage is no lottery,
For if a blank you chance to draw
You cannot throw the same away
And then forget it evermore.

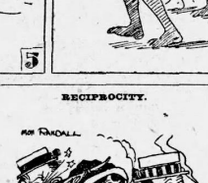
RECIPROCITY.



It isn't right for men to smoke

The Third Philadelphia North American Egg-Laying Competition

IN November, 1911, the poultry fraternity saw the inauguration of the first egg-laying competition in the United States. This contest was planned by the Philadelphia North American, and was held at Storrs, Conn., in cooperation with the Connecticut Agricultural College and Experiment Station. This first contest was so satisfactory, and so full of valuable features, that a second contest was held at the same place, and under the same auspices. This second contest will end November 1 of this year—and the results have been so beneficial that it has been found advisable to hold a third contest.

The third Philadelphia North American International Egg-Laying Competition will start on November 1, 1913, and will run for one full year, ending October 31, 1914. This contest will be held at Thorndale, Pa., on grounds donated for the competition by the Inglesides Farm company. They have provided entirely new houses, yards, and equipment all the way through.

These grounds are 3 miles from Philadelphia, on the main line of the Pennsylvania railroad, which annually carries over 12,000,000 passengers by the grounds. In addition to this there are thousands of trolley passengers and automobilists who daily use the roads running by the competition. It will be seen, thus, that from a publicity standpoint, the grounds are admirably located. Take into consideration the added fact, that they enjoy ideal climatic, and soil conditions, and it will be readily seen that this year's competition should be a bigger success than ever.

In this competition, there will be one hundred pens entered, each pen consisting of five pure bred females, with no males. Each entrant can send six birds, the reserve bird being substituted in case of death or incurable sickness of one of the five competing birds.

The benefits of such a competition, properly conducted, are numerous. In the limited space available here, we cannot begin to enumerate these advantages, but full information may be obtained from the secretary of the competition.

The management of this competition is placed in the hands of an advisory board of ten members. The south has been honored with representation on this board, by the appointment of Arthur F. Rolf, the poultry husbandman of the Georgia Experiment Station. In addition to Mr. A. F. Rolf, the other members of the advisory board are as follows:

Mr. Reese V. Hicks, president American Poultry association.

Dr. A. A. Brigham, professor poultry hansbandry, South Dakota College of Agriculture.

Prof. M. C. Kilpatrick, poultry husbandman, Pennsylvania State College.

Dr. N. W. Sanborn, Holden, Mass.

Prof. F. H. Stoneburn, late of Storrs, Connecticut, Agricultural Experiment Station.

E. E. Althouse, general manager Poultry Item, Sellersville, Pa.

George A. McDevitt, Philadelphia, Pa.

Prof. F. C. Elford, Dominion husbandman, Ottawa, Can.

F. V. L. Turner, Philadelphia, Pa.

With this splendid board of purely representative poultrymen, the entrants will be assured of the best of care and treatment of their birds, and strict supervision. Mr. Rolf, will especially look after the interests of southern competitors.

Southern poultry breeders are especially urged to have their birds represented in this competition. Let them tell you more about the advantages of such a competition. Full and specific information may be secured by writing to Mr. F. V. L. Turner, the North American, Philadelphia, Pa., the secretary of the competition, or to Mr. Arthur F. Rolf, Georgia Experiment Station, Experiment, Ga. Several pens of southern birds will be entered in this competition.

Very truly yours,

Geo. W. Rolf

MEDIUM SIZED ACREAGE TRACTS.

ALL OF US know the profit that is usually made from acreage. It is almost a conceded fact that if a person owns good acreage, he has a sure profit in it sooner or later.

When we think of acreage propositions, we think of lots of land, and naturally lots of money, because the usual acreage transaction involves a great deal of money.

The demand for good, close-in acreage for subdivision purposes is increasing every day. A trip to the outskirts of the city in any direction you choose to take will convince you of this fact.

We are going to offer a tract of about 100 acres, between Decatur and East Lake, which we have cut up into five, ten and fifteen-acre tracts. The price and terms on these tracts makes it possible for almost anybody to handle them.
